Soviets Halt Nazi Advance on Moscow

PUSH ATTACKS AGAINST LINE IN MID-SECTOR

Berlin Claims New Successes Against Defenders of Leningrad Area.

AIR BLOWS TRADED

Political Storm Brews In London Over Policy on Aid To Russians.

BULLETIN

BERLIN — (U.P.) — German quarters claimed tonight that a German spearhead has crashed through Leningrad's outer defenses to stand "immediately before" Krasnaya Selo, about 16 miles from the Soviet metropolis.

(By United Press)

Russia counter-attacked Nazi lines in the central sector today, bringing German advances on the highway toward Moscow to a halt.

In the north Berlin claimed a new success against Soviet forces protecting the Luga route toward Leningrad, 90 miles away.

Berlin and Moscow appeared to agree that persistent Russian attacks in the Smolensk-Gomel-Bobruisk sector had brought German forward movement in the central area to a halt and pushed back Nazi lines at some points.
This relieved for the time being the threat of a German push toward Moscow or a sudden swing south to cut behind Russian positions on the western banks of the Dnieper.

However, Russian counter-action in the sector apparently was not yet powerful enough to force the Germans to relax their pressure in the north.

German official news agency reports claimed that Nazi troops north of Luga—90 miles due south of Leningrad—had overcome the handicap of water-bogged terrain to breach Russian defenses and force the Red army to retreat, leaving behind much heavy equipment and many guns which could not be moved over mud-choked roads.

Southward, in the Ukraine, Russian attempts to establish new bridgeheads on the western bank of the Dnieper still were in progress but Nazi accounts claimed

1500 Pickets Mass To Keep Workers Away From Plant

PITTSBURGH — (U.P.) — The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee
(CIO) ringed the struck Pressed Steel Car company with a solid mass of pickets today, thwarting plans of the company to restart defense production with independent union forces.

Assembling in groups of six to 10 men each, approximately 1500 members of the SWOC milled about the plant, turning away employees who sought to enter.

While a few verbal clashes occurred, there was no violence.
Stow township's entire 12-man police force was on duty. The SWOC struck the plant last Friday, alleging company discrimination against its members and refusal by the company to agree to a national labor relations board election between the SWOC and the Independent Car and Foundry Workers' union.

FACES CHARGE

Cincinnati To Be Arraigned On Murder Count Today.

CINCINNATI — (U.P.) — Lee Jen-telson, 23-year-old former brilliant University of Cincinnati undergraduate, was to be arraigned in court today on a charge of murdering his pretty estranged wife,
Mrs. Margaret Kulier Jentelson, 23.

Jentelson has been under police guard for mental observation at General hospital for the past two days.

PICK PORT HURON

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — The Canadian Legion, composed chiefly of native born Americans who served with the British forces during the World war, voted to meet in Port Huron, Mich., as the annual convention ended here yesterday.

Scenes at Mansfield's Labor Day Exercises

Mansfielders saw the largest Labor day parade in history yesterday as Mansfield union men took time off from their work to join with civic organizations and six bands to celebrate. Top left picture shows paraders marching along West Fourth street led by floats and followed by one of the bands. Ernest

DeMaio, of New York, representing the United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers, is shown in the top right photo talking from the bandstand in Central park. One of the many floats in the parade is shown in the bottom left picture. Photo at the bottom right shows a part of the more than 3,000 spectators who gathered in Central park to hear the speakers.

TREK BACK TO SCHOOL STARTS

6,000 Resume Classes Today, Mansfield Buildings Will Open Tomorrow.

Summer vacation was over today for more than 6,000 boys and girls in some Mansfield, Shelby, and Richland county schools who went back to their books as the new term opened.

Approximately 6,400 more youngsters will return to classes Wednesday when the Mansfield public schools launch a new term.
By Sept. 15 all of the 13,400 pupils expected to attend school in Mansfield and Richland county this

FOUR HUNTED

Police Seek Men Accused of Assaulting Girls.

CANTON — (U.P.) — Police today sought four negroes accused of having attacked two white girls, 16 and 18, and of stabbing one of their two escorts in the stomach.
He was not seriously injured.

The girls were taken to Anti-man hospital for examination.
Although their youthful escorts were beaten and bruised they did not require hospital treatment.

Start county authorities said the attack occurred near a cemetery outside of Canton. The youths, one of whom, police said, was a United States marine, also were robbed, they reported.

Mansfield Stores Begin To Apply Curb On Credit Buying

Mansfield today began to feel the effects of the government's new rule restricting easy time payments on automobiles, household appliances, and a number of other common articles.

The installment credit regulations, set up by the Federal Reserve board, went into effect Monday, but because it was a legal holiday there was no chance to try out the plan.

Calls Nazis Greatest Foe Of Unions In Speech Here

Labor Leader Tells 3,000 at Park That Unions Can't Exist Without Democracy; 10,000 Watch Paraders.

"Unions cannot exist under any form of government except democracy and today Nazi Germany is the greatest threat to unionism," Ernest DeMaio of New York City, international organizer of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, told 3,000 persons attending the Labor day celebration yesterday in Central park.

DeMaio, Mayor William J. Locke and Philip Clowes, representing the Steel Workers' Organization, spoke following Mans-field's largest Labor day parade which marched through city streets lined with more than 10, 000 persons.

Paraders and workmen on holiday were welcomed by Mayor Locke who made a short talk in which he told them the city was proud of the record they had set for peaceful mediation of disputes with management.

Clowes outlined CIO gains during the past year. Highlights of his talk were his discussion of the organization of the Ford Motor company in Detroit and the prediction that "Little Steel" will be the next to be organized.

Speaking of labor's part in national defense, Clowes said that the nation's newspapers had "entirely misrepresented" defense-slowing strikes.

The cooperative agreement between the management of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company and Delano lodge, SWOC, was hailed by both DeMaio and Clowes as one of the reasons the CIO had been successful in signing contracts throughout the country during the past year.

PLANS PROTEST

CIO Dissatisfied With Vote at Shipbuilding Yards.

LORAIN — (U.P.) — The CIO plans to protest a National Labor Relations board election in yards of the American Shipbuilding company, William A. McPhillips, national representative of the CIO Marine Shipbuilders' union, said today.

A collective bargaining election was won last week by the AFL,
1,264 to 799, in the company's yards at Lorain, Cleveland, Toledo, Buffalo, Superior, Wis., and South Chicago, Ill.

McPhillips charged that officials of the Cleveland yard permitted AFL representatives to speak to company workers at the noon hour, using 15 minutes of company time. At Buffalo, he added, 135 votes were cast while the yard normally employs about 50 men.

Hugh E. Sperry, regional director of the NLRB, said at Cleveland that he would send his report on the election to the company and unions during the day. Five days will be allowed for filing of objections.

KILLED IN CRASH

Churchill's Great Aunt Dies In Automobile Accident.

LONDON — (U.P.) — Funeral arrangements were being made today for Lady Edward Spencer Churchill, 80, great aunt of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, who was killed in an automobile accident at Cobham in Surrey.

Her daughter, Beryl Lady Cod-ray, was seriously injured.

WORKERS GO ON 4-HOUR SHIFT

Westinghouse Refrigerator Assembly Department Cuts Working Time.

Workers in the refrigerator cabinet assembly department at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant went on a four-hour schedule today as the plant resumed operations following a two-week vacation for employees.

A company spokesman said the reduced shift was the first step to curtail domestic production to save raw materials for defense industries. No employees at the plant have been paid off, it was pointed out, and it was indicated that no further moves will be made until the curtailment order comes through from Washington.

The several hundred employees in the cabinet assembly department were working three shifts of about seven hours each before the plant's vacation period.
The three-shift schedule will be continued indefinitely, it was said.

Meanwhile, company officials are awaiting word from Washington on defense orders which are expected to help take up the slack that may result from the curtailed production of refrigerators and ranges for domestic use.

It may be necessary to set up a new work schedule at the plant
when the OPM order to reduce domestic production comes through and the company has a definite report on its bids for orders for defense materials, the Westinghouse spokesman said.

HOSS THIEVES?

Charges of Horse-Stealing Filed
By Amish at Chardon.

CHARDON — (U.P.) — For the first time in more than 40 years, charges of horse stealing are on file here. Menno Schmucker and Dan Weaver, members of an Amish settlement, complained that their horses and buggies were taken from a hitching post at the fairgrounds in nearby Burton.

Sheriff's deputies arrested four suspects who will be arraigned tonight.

NATION'S DEAD OVER 400; SAFE HOLIDAY HERE

Mansfield, County Establish Record With No Serious Accidents Reported.

OHIO'S TOLL SET AT 28

Reports Show 416 Met Violent
Death In Labor Day Mishaps
Throughout U. S.

Establishing a safety record for a double holiday week-end, the Mansfield area emerged today without a single fatality despite heavily traveled highways which brought death to 28 Ohioans and 416 other vacationists and tourists in all parts of the country.

Not a single serious accident marred Richland county's traffic record. Except for the injury of a traffic policeman and the occupant of one of the autos in a three-car crash Saturday night, motorists confined themselves to bump-ing fenders or other minor property damage.

Patrolman Arthur Conrady suffered severe cuts and bruises Saturday when an auto skidded into the rear of another which had already been involved in a collision at Lexington avenue and Edgewood road. The policeman, who was standing alongside the second auto, questioning the driver, was thrown into a ditch. Mrs. George Antonell, Warren, suffered back injuries in the same accident and was admitted to General hospital.

Although it was believed Con-
rady had suffered severe injuries, doctors discovered their fears were unfounded and the policeman returned to duty yesterday.

The only other accident of any consequence occurred when a Chicago motorist swerved to avoid hitting a private family trailer and knocked over a fire hydrant.

L. J. Wachol, Chicago, told police that he damaged a fire hydrant while swerving to miss an automobile and trailer driven by William C. Keys, Bellingham.

AT EASE!

Troops Rest as Officers Take Over War Maneuvers.

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA — (U.S.) — Paper ma-nipulations replaced actual troop movements throughout the Louisiana maneuver area today as more than 10,000 officers of the third army sought the solution to problems that will arise when they face the second United States field army.

Troops, held on the alert, kept to scattered bivouac areas throughout the rolling hill sections of southwest Louisiana as command post movements dominated the maneuver picture.

It was a case today of the soldier sitting back taking it easy while the thousands of officers sweated and toiled throughout the field. The enlisted men and selectees lolled comfortably in their bivouac areas as the officers shuttled about, simulating the movement of the troops.

Lewis Brucker, City's Oldest Practicing Attorney, Dies At 85

Atty. Lewis Brucker, 85, former Richland county probate judge, leader in Democratic politics, and Mansfield's oldest practicing attorney, died early today at his home at 484 Park avenue west. He had been in failing health for six months.

Known to his friends as "Judge,"
Mr. Brucker was associated with the city's legal, political and fraternal life for 55 years. He came here from Shelby where he was in the coal business for three years.

An active attorney almost to his death, Mr. Brucker was in his office for the last time a week ago yesterday. Very weak then, he was helped to his automobile for the last time. That afternoon he fell at his home and was confined to his bed.
His condition took a turn for the

Shanghai Hears Struggle Rages On World Role

Nazi-Goaded Extremists Pitted Against Moderates; Army Spokesman Declares Nippon Will Use Force to Break
'Ring'; FDR Omits Comment

(By Associated Press)

Japan was reported reliably today to be in the throes of an internal struggle between Germangoaded extremists and realistic moderates over how best to achieve the unchallenged oriental dominance which Japanese regard as their ordained world role.

According to reliable foreigners, including Axis nationals, arriving at Shanghai, the seething situation behind Tokyo's censorship may develop one or more of the following:

1. Japanese action in the Pacific or a new move on the Asiatic continent; the former might be a thrust against the Netherlands East Indies and the latter a move against Thailand or Vladivostok, Russia's Pacific gateway for receipt of war supplies from the United States.

2. Overthrow of the present Konoye government, possibly by force.

3. Rapprochement with the United States and Britain, desired by the realistic moderates as a breathing spell pending hope for an eventual American-British acceptance of the Japanese expansionist policy.

The last would represent a victory for the present moderating influences in the Konoye government; the first two a victory for the extremists, notably the military clique, which, according to the Shanghai arrivals, is under pressure and even demands from German advisers for a Japanese challenge to the United States, Britain and Russia.

Realistic Japanese leaders were pictured as sure that Japan would face a catastrophic defeat if she makes that challenge.

Between the rival leaders in Japan lay the mass of panicky civilians, according to the Shanghai story, preparing for incendiaries and explosives with buckets of water and piles of sand outside their flimsily built homes and with red mats under which to take refuge in their gardens.

The shipment of American war supplies to Russia via Vladivostok
—the first shipment of aviation gasoline is now nearing that port—has brought Japan to the crossroads of her policy. What she will do beyond her present representations against the Vladivostok shipments is the big question.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt's avoidance of the tough Japanese situation in his Labor day speech, an omission generally accepted as

Suffers Serious Burns as Explosion Wrecks Power House at Camden.

CAMDEN, N. J. — (U.P.) — An explosion in a power house of the RCA-Victor Manufacturing company shook the entire Camden business section today.

Three thousand employees, most of them women, were ushered from the building in fire drill formations.

Morris Maass, an engineer, was reported in serious condition at Cooper hospital with burns of the face, arms, chest and back. He was working in the power house where the blast occurred.

NEW POLICY

Change In Administering of Defense Program Seen.

WASHINGTON — (U.S.) — A major change in the policy of administering the national defense program is expected to be announced late today after President Roosevelt's new supplies priorities and allocations board holds its first meeting.

Donald M. Nelson, key man in the new defense set up since President Roosevelt named him as executive officer of SPAB has drawn up a statement of policy for the approval of the board.

It was learned in defense circles that Nelson's document would announce an important move in the defense set up. It also is known that the new board, headed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace desires to turn the meeting later today into an important conference rather than just an organization conclave.

Henry Fonda Has Huge 'Fortune' In Bogus Money

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (INS)—Henry Fonda is the most moneyed man in Hollywood.

He has hoarded $30,000,000. The money is mostly worthless, but at face value it represents a full $30,000,000.

These are German marks in fabulous figures, relics of the post-war German inflationary period. There is money printed by various revolutionary leaders in Mexico, which is now worthless. He has confederate money, old Russian currency, wampum that the Indians used and even some bright colored bits of cloth, numbered in Arabic that were used as token money during the filming of "African Background" scene for Stanley and Livingston.

BOOKIES REFUSE BETS ON WAR

LONDON—(AP)—Bookmakers are refusing to take bets even though there is a slump in greyhound racing owing to the war.

But the bets they are refusing have nothing to do with racing.

"Every day we receive inquiries from clients old and new, as to the odds we will lay on various aspects of the war," said a London bookmaker.

"But we will not quote. War is a matter far too serious."

NATION'S DEAD OVER 400; SAFE HOLIDAY HERE

Wash., near the Baltimore and Ohio overhead crossing on Park avenue west. City waterworks employees were called out to repair the damaged hydrant which covered the street with water.

Three traffic accidents were reported in the Shelby area.

Jimmy Holtz, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Holtz of Taylorstown, escaped serious injury when hit by a car driven by Miss Pauline Wilson, 24 Jeffrey avenue, Shelby, on East Main street at 8:30 p. m., Saturday.

Jimmy was taken to the office of a physician where he received treatment.

John Olson of near Shelby, escaped injury when the car he was driving skidded into a culvert on the Shelby-Ontario road four miles south of Shelby Saturday night.

Cars driven by Ray Haverfield, Shelby, R. D. 1, and Aril Argo, 14 Walnut street, collided at Shelby street intersection Saturday night.

While Mansfield and vicinity escaped without any fatalities or serious accidents, other sections of the country were not so fortunate.

An Associated Press survey showed today 73 drowned and 125 died in shootings, stabbings, falls, fires, airplane accidents and by other violent means.

Violent death struck down at least 48 persons in Ohio during the long week-end.

Traffic took the greater toll, 29 being killed by automobiles and trains. Six persons drowned and 13 died of various other forms of violence.

Deaths from all violent causes over the Labor day week-end a year ago totaled 514 as against 614 this year.

The automobile fatalities included Robert L. Ramsay, jr., son of Rep. Ramsay (D-W. Va.) who was thrown from a side-swiper car near Rockland, Md. He died Sunday of a broken neck.

California led in traffic accident death with 46. Ohio had 28 and Illinois 27. Michigan had the most drownings, 13, and Ohio the most fatalities from miscellaneous causes, 13.

Automobile casualties were heaviest in the northern section of Ohio. Three crashes—at Cleveland, Painesville and in Lucas county—killed two persons each. Two died in separate mishaps at Ravenna. John C. Haubert, 69, was struck and killed as he crossed a street in Canton; a car crushed the life from Richard Chruski, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elo Chruski, at Lorain. Martin Stahora, 54, of Fostoria, ran into the side of an auto at Tiffin and died.

The Ravenna victims, who died yesterday, were Mrs. Charles D. Little, 37, of Akron, whose husband was killed Saturday in a two-car crash that injured her, and Edward Aspek, 44, of Cleveland, who was injured last week.

An auto-bus collision near Fairfield killed George Boynton, 67, of Dayton, and Anton Lucas, 57, laborer, was struck and killed near his home in Madison.

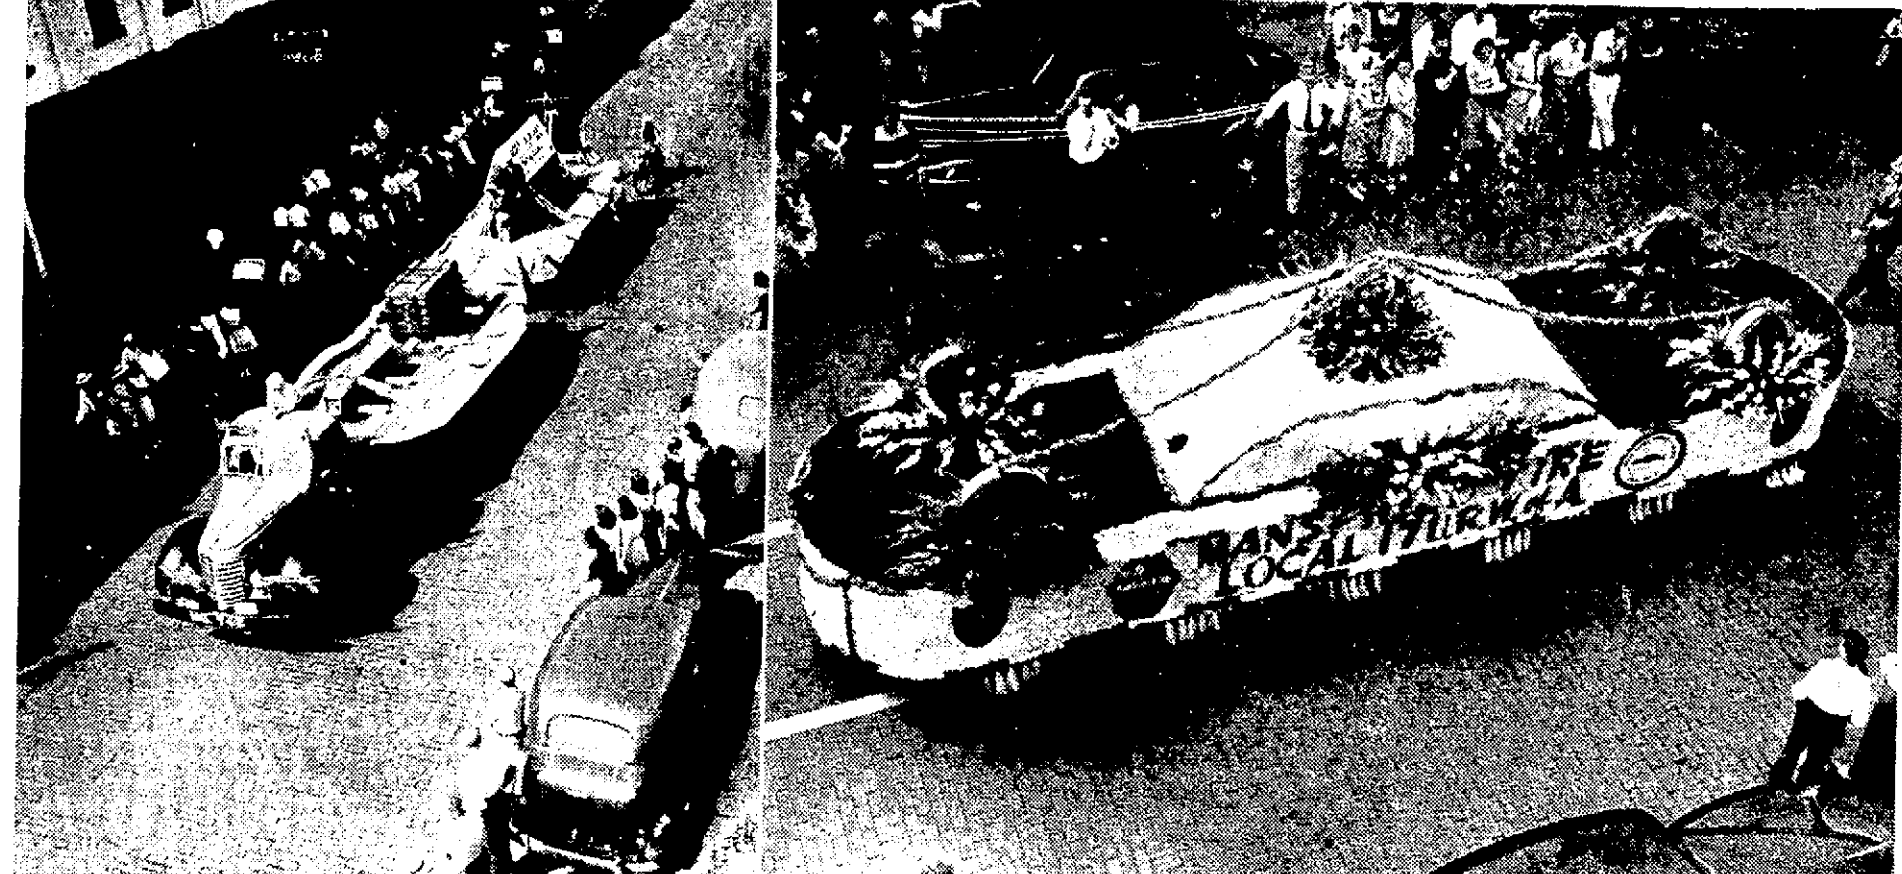

Two persons were killed near Zanesville—Wilbur Pignam, 26, of Walhonding in a collision, and John Hulse, 40, crushed by a train.

Bullets through their heads, the bodies of Clara Tubbs, 17, and Robert Garrison, 18, were discovered in a parked automobile at Canton yesterday. Police said they found a pistol by the boy's right hand. Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Garrison, parents of the boy, and Mr. and Mrs. James Riley, mother and stepfather of the girl, said the couple planned to marry on Miss Tubbs' 18th birthday, Dec. 15.

Struck by falling brick and timbers, Henry Boucher of Tuscarawas and Leonard E. Addison of Uhrichsville, both about 60, were killed while they razed the abandoned Mays school building in Stonecreek valley near New Philadelphia. Coroner D. M. Cermella returned a verdict of accidental death.

Richard Schumpf, 5, Youngstown, was killed late Monday night in an accident at a street intersection in Youngstown.

UNIFORM CODE NOW GOVERNS OHIO TRAFFIC

New Law, Effective Saturday, Operates Same Over Entire State.

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of stories outlining highlights of Ohio's new traffic code.)

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Ohio motorists today can travel across the state without being confronted with different traffic regulations in every city or village.

Last Saturday, Ohio's uniform traffic code, the first ever promulgated in the state, became effective. Now motorists will observe the same traffic signs and regulations in Cleveland as in Podunk as soon as the state highway department and local subdivisions can change all traffic signs to a uniform standard.

Being the first attempt at evolving a uniform traffic code, even the most ardent sponsors of the law do not claim perfection for it. They admit that probably several contradictions will arise and that subsequent legislatures will have to make amendments.

Code provisions apply to all highways, either in the country or municipality, and to all streets within a municipality unless the municipality obtains authority from the highway department to make changes.

All vehicular traffic and pedestrians are required to obey all traffic control devices unless a police officer is on duty. Then they must obey the traffic officer, regardless of what the control devices indicate.

Traffic signals may use the words "go", "caution", and "stop" or colors "green", "yellow" and "red".

When green or "go" is flashed all traffic facing the signal may move through an intersection, but must yield the right of way to traffic within the intersection.

When "caution" or yellow is flashed after green or "go" signals, all traffic facing such signals must stop, but traffic already within the intersection may clear it.

When yellow or "caution" flashes after red or "stop", pedestrians may proceed, but all other traffic must wait until the green or "go" signal is flashed.

When red alone is flashed all traffic must stop.

When a green arrow alone shows, traffic may enter an intersection to move as indicated by the arrow, but must yield the right of way to other traffic within the intersection.

When "walk" or "wait" are used as special pedestrian controls, all other traffic must give the right of way to the pedestrian when "walk" is flashed, but when "wait" is flashed the pedestrian must not attempt to cross.

Where flasher signals are used, all vehicular traffic must stop on red before entering an intersection and then proceed only with caution.

When yellow is flashed all vehicular traffic must proceed with caution through the intersection, but it need not stop.

Spikes Reports Philippine Headhunters On The Warpath

KANSAS CITY — (INS) — Rumors that the headhunters of the Philippines were practicing their "ancient sport" were spiked recently by the Rev. Thomas E. Cannon, S. J., director of the Jesuit Philippine Bureau.

Representing 280 priests and brothers of the order now serving in the islands, Father Cannon investigated recent reports that headhunting had broken out and that there was "mass killing of Christians by the tribesmen."

These reports apparently grew out of the trial and sentencing to life imprisonment a few months ago of two Ilongots for the killing of three persons a year ago. The convicted men were members of one of five remaining headhunting tribes in the Philippines, and Father Cannon intimated that with each repetition the accounts became more "imaginative."

Father Cannon, in a recent interview, attempted to protect the reputation of the tribes and at the same time calm the fears of relatives of priests now doing missionary work in the islands.

The priest said headhunting has not been practiced in 35 years and that the infrequent occasions are looked upon as crimes and treated accordingly. He also asserted that an entire race should not be condemned because a few members revert to their earlier type.

Father Cannon estimated that about 5,000 headhunters remain in the islands, mostly in Northern Luzon; they are the Ilongots, Ifugaos, Kalingas, Montones and Igorots and, though they have made many contacts with civilization, prefer to live in grass huts with almost no clothing.

Calls Nazis Greatest Foe Of Unions In Speech Here

J. R. (Bud) Harrington, manager of the Mansfield airport, told the celebrators of the need for an improved airport while De Maio was being flown from Akron to Mansfield. De Maio had flown from Philadelphia. Last night, he made a return flight to Philadelphia.

Led by police and firemen followed by the red-and-blue-clad Mansfield high school band, the paraders marched through solidly-packed streets of spectators.

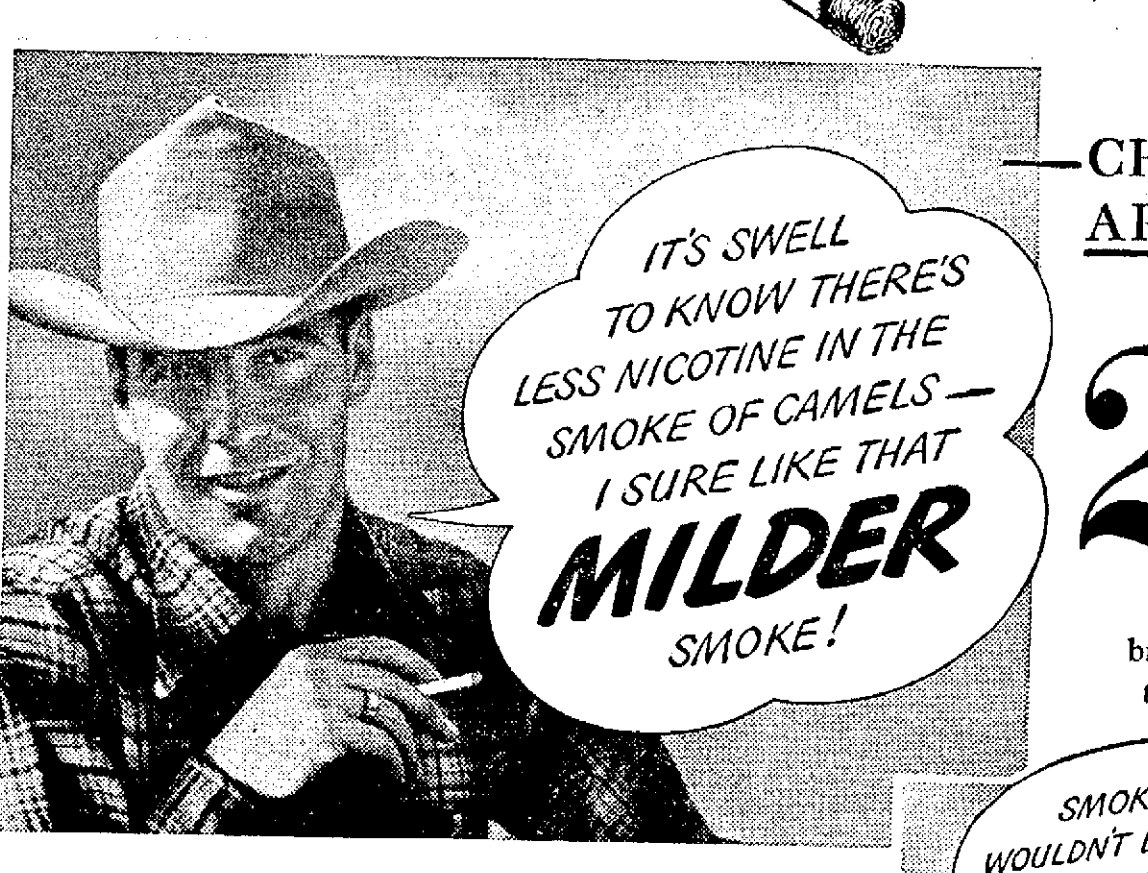

Following the high school band came members of the Delano lodge, wearing white derby hats with red brims and blue bands and carrying red, white and blue striped canes.

Westinghouse Local 711, another large delegation, followed the Gallion Odd Fellows band wearing brand new blue and gold "over-seas" caps with designations on the bands. Westinghouse locals sported a huge staired float be-decked with bathing girls in flowered green, blue and bright yellow bathing suits which drew cheers along the whole line of march.

First prize in innng float, however, was entered by locals of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company who sported a long flower-laden float with gilded tires connected with strands of flowers.

Float judges were C. N. Crafton, G. W. Marriott and O. C. Kalbfleisch.

Iceland Not Quite as Cold As the Name Would Indicate

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—It isn't much colder in Iceland during the winter than it is in Philadelphia, records here showed when national interest was turned to the northern island upon its occupation by armed American forces.

The average temperature there between fall and spring is about 32 degrees above zero, it was revealed. The surprisingly mild climate—belying the island's name—is attributed to antics of the Gulf Stream.

Iceland got its name partly through a man named Floki, who settled there 1,000 years ago and blamed the weather for the death of his herds. Icelanders declare it wasn't the frigidity, but Floki's stupidity that caused his animals to perish. Actually, boosters of the island assert, its clear air and curative springs make the country healthier than many noted resorts.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1941

One advantage that aviation has over motoring is that pilots are trained to operate a plane.

According to an eastern psychologist, man's mind functioned as well 15,000 years ago as it does now—and it's consoling to learn that we're not losing ground.

Field Marshal Goering was bragging, a while back, that the British could never touch Berlin; and now there are reports that the government there is moving to a safer place.

Unity, Harmony, Progress

MANSFIELD'S observance of Labor day befitted an industrial city in which those who are enrolled in the ranks of labor play an important part in community activities and civic advancement.

Both in the morning parade and the program which followed at Central park, the people of Mansfield and vicinity evidenced lively interest in observance of the annual holiday dedicated to Labor, and throughout the celebration there was a feeling that here could be seen an exemplification of Americanism at its best.

Representation of Mansfield and vicinity towns by their high school bands provided an impressive feature of the parade, with its implication of youthful appreciation of approaching responsibilities of citizenship.

Particularly appealing was the slogan artistically displayed on one of the floats in the parade, "Unity, Harmony, Progress"—three words which typify the fine spirit that has contributed much to Mansfield's advancement in the past and which justifies a feeling of confidence in the future.

This year's Labor day also marks entry into the third year of the European war, with the outcome still in doubt but with increasing dependence on American aid to the nations battling against the Axis powers.

With the slogan, "Unity, Harmony, Progress," translated into action throughout the United States, the end of the war, with restoration of sanity in Europe and safety for America, can be much hastened.

Amber Light Will Mean 'Stop'

OHIO'S new traffic code, to become effective next Saturday, will necessitate one important change in the driving habits of many Mansfield motorists—and should also effect considerable reduction in crashes at street intersections guarded by traffic lights.

Common practice in Mansfield, but seldom noted elsewhere, is for motorists to dash through intersections during the amber interval of change from green to red, and also to start on the amber after having stopped for the red light.

This has been responsible for a number of collisions, after which both motorists claimed to have had the right of way.

Under the new code the amber light will mean STOP, to all drivers who have not already entered the intersection. Drivers are also prohibited from starting during the amber change from red to green. It is only the GREEN light that authorizes them to proceed—and then only after the crosswalk is clear of pedestrians who have stepped from the curb before the light change.

As this is Ohio first attempt to place a uniform traffic code in effect throughout the state, some revisions may be necessary from time to time, but the objectives of greater safety and convenience are well worth the effort involved.

Nazi Sympathy for Iran

NAZI SPOKESMEN in Berlin are weeping bitter tears over the sad lot of those Iranians, invaded and oppressed by ruthless British and Russian troops. Never, you might think from their lamentations, has there been such flagrant disregard of the right of a small nation.

Do the arrogant super-men in Berlin really believe what they say, or do they think they can fool the world?

Americans take no special satisfaction in the admitted disregard of the technical rights of small nations. In normal times it would have been considered indecent and oppressive for the British and Russians to do this. In the present situation, where the destructive forces of Nazism threaten to overrun and ruin the whole free world, and where Iran with its oil wells would give the Nazis immense power to spread their conquests, the comparatively mild procedure of the free powers doesn't arouse much criticism. Iranians offered little more than technical resistance, and apparently prefer allied protection to the Nazi juggernaut. This is probably their best hope for freedom.

Putting Silver to Work

WHAT hardships this nation is enduring! Why, in the scramble to fill orders for military supplies we're even reduced to using silver for soldering our pots and pans. Fortunately we have plenty of that metal, and the government may be glad to find practical uses for it. If the supply of silver ran out, which it won't, we could even turn to gold for a lot of household purposes, and never miss it from the federal treasury stock.

Mostly, though, our industrial substitutes run to cheaper and commoner stuff. More and more we come to use plywood for aluminum, steel and other "base metals," and plastics for a thousand purposes. Soon we shall have many unfamiliar products produced from straw, wood-waste and other stuff formerly rated as valueless.

This trend is especially important to nations low in metals. Industrial chemistry might yet enrich many a poor but intelligent nation or community. It is recommended especially to Germany, the native land of "ersatz," which has gone far afield, and set the world against it, to gain materials that it might have produced profitably at home.

An Incredible Situation

WHEN you take a look around, perhaps the most fantastic thing you will note is the fact that Soviet Russia is now fighting on the side of the democracies. Next is the derivative fact that the democracies themselves, even the Poles and other nations that Stalin was lately persecuting and destroying, are now ranged amicably on his side.

This shows common sense on the part of the democracies as well as the Russian autocracy. For both Russia and the democracies at last see Hitlerism, or Nazism, for what it is—the most evil and disrupting force ever let loose in this modern world.

When the military and political conflagration raised by Hitler has been put out, then minor ideological groups can resume their social and political arguments.

DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN HERE!

Army Experts Misjudged Russia

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—In view of the possibility of a shooting war with Japan it might be wise to bear in mind that surprises may be expected, perhaps very unpleasant ones. Nobody here believes there will be any surprise about the final outcome, but there may be developments of far-reaching importance which no one now envisions.

This skepticism applies to supposedly well-informed intelligence services of the army and navy as well as the man in the street, who knows only what he reads and can figure by looking at maps.

For instance, within a few days after the attack on Russia by Germany a man in close touch with our army intelligence, a man whose business requires him to have contact there daily, was having dinner with some friends. He made a bet that night that the war between Germany and Russia would be over by September 1. After the bet was irrevocable, he humbly informed the person he thought he had taken advantage of that he was betting on the best information in the world—the opinion of military experts in the army intelligence!

He added, with unctious, that he had given himself considerable leeway in the bet, because the army believed firmly that Adolf Hitler would complete his victory and the Russians would stop fighting within four weeks.

It would seem to the casual observer that the army should have been better informed both as to the strength of the Soviet and the morale of its people and troops. It is a great military mistake. Wars have been lost because of less grave errors than that.

SOON after Munich the editor of Aviation Magazine, following a visit to Germany, wrote a story for the Saturday Evening

Looking Back

Friday, Sept. 2, 1921.

Summer weather continued into September, with temperature approaching 90.

William A. Carter of Springfield township was appointed to fill vacancy on board of county commissioners.

Emil Adeiman left for Dallas, Tex., to attend union convention. W. F. Simpson, former member of Mansfield high school faculty, became superintendent of Shelby schools.

Mrs. Amanda Hestland Courts, 88, native of Mansfield, died in California.

Jacob Rinehardt was visiting in city and planned to move back here from Dayton.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1936.

Rev. David B. Miller resigned as custodian of the law library at the courthouse, at the age of 96.

Buster Bowser, 5, suffered a leg fracture when he was struck by an auto.

Kent Oberlin was elected commander of McVey post, No. 16, American Legion.

Mrs. J. E. Upson was vacationing in New York City.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Briner, 151 West Third street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The great conflagration in London, England, began on Sept. 2, 1666, covering 436 acres and raging for five days. Over 13,000 homes were destroyed together with 89 churches. The fire followed the Great Plague of 1665.

Post, entitled: "Hitler Wasn't Bluffing." This backed up the much-maligned information given by Charles A. Lindbergh to the effect that the German air force was terrific. Lindbergh had added that the Russian air force was not very good.

This Lindbergh report was well in advance of the opening of the present war, in September, 1939. So, having laughed at Lindbergh in 1939, and seen his information confirmed in 1940, it would seem that the "experts" then accepted everything he had said in 1939 as still being true in 1941. In short, there apparently was no information in the places in Washington where it should have been in June, 1941, that the Russian air force was strong enough to make some trouble for the Germans.

OTHER information about Russia seems to have been as cock-eyed as the army's estimate that it could not fight more than four weeks. It may be that the government is about to make the same mistake in estimating the future as it did on the basis of the Lindbergh report.

The point is that there is no assurance whatever that the Russians can keep on fighting until any definite date. Nobody in this country really has an opinion on that worth stating. The army was just about 100 per cent wrong in June. But what will happen in the next six months cannot be assumed from that. There are people in Washington who would not be surprised by Hitler and Premier Joseph Stalin made peace in September or February. They may be right. Or those in authority, who now calmly assume that Russia will keep on fighting until the end of the war between Britain and Germany, may be right.

It is all guess work. There is no information worth having so it would seem to be wise to be prepared for anything.

What's the Cure?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT'S THE CURE FOR DEAD END KIDS? MORE RECREATION . . . OR MORE RESPONSIBILITY? A lot of cities are asking that these days, cities that have found juvenile delinquency problems on their hands. "Teen-age thieves, thugs and murderers, bustin' out in a regular rash. Totin' guns before they've shed their baby teeth. Giving the Bronx Cheer to Law 'n' Order. So what? So, for weary months, Special Committees have been pondering. And thinking they've found the answer—at last. Here's San Francisco, for example.

"What young people need" say they, "is more recreation. Playgrounds within walking distance of every underprivileged child's home. Lighting facilities for night sports. Use of public buildings for night-time games, dances, parties. Supervised fun in every possible form."

Listen, lovely, doesn't it? But here's a Solid Citizen who was cut-up himself. And, according to him, these charming theories are all Eye Wash. And Nothing Else But!

"I was a Dead End Kid myself, once," says he, "so naturally I cut-up discussions with a lot of interest. But frankly, I think most of them are The Bunk. There were reformers when I was a youngster, just as there are now and they handed us the same old line about Good Clean Fun. They even went so far as to rig up gymnasiums and baseball fields and promote picnics. And I have no doubt they meant it all for the best.

"BUT I NEVER YET SAW 'RECREATION' REFORM A SINGLE KID WHO WANTED TO RAISE HELL AND I DON'T SUPPOSE I EVER WILL.

"Don't misunderstand me, Miss Robinson. I have nothing against healthy pleasure and exercise for youngsters. I have two of my own and I give them all the breaks possible. But I just don't believe that 'fun' is the cure for juvenile delinquency. In fact, I believe that our general attitude toward play in one of the worst things that has happened to our nation. We all go on trying to pretend we're Mickey Mouse or Donald Duck, even when we're fifty . . . and get sore as pups if someone tells us to 'be our age'.

"By the time a boy is old enough to be a 'Dead End Kid,' what he needs isn't more recreation but more responsibility. The people who built America didn't do it by playing 'post-office.' They were out splitting rails and clearing brush when they were twelve. And it wasn't just the hard work that turned them into good citizens. It was the self-respect that came with the hard work and the trust they inspired in other people. Responsibility and self-respect will do more to keep a kid straight than a hundred trick playgrounds.

"The reason we have 'dead-end' kid problems is because we older folks have dead-end kid ideals. We no longer have serious aims, like our mothers and fathers did. We no longer try to be 'solid citizens.' Our ambition is to win a tennis or swimming or golf championship. If fathers and mothers refuse to grow up, what can you expect of the children?"

"MAYBE I AM WRONG. BUT I THINK AN OUNCE OF RESPONSIBILITY IS WORTH A TON OF RECREATION WHEN IT COMES TO RAISING REAL AMERICAN CITIZENS."

Recreation or Responsibility—what's YOUR vote? Playgrounds or Workshops? That question roused 1300 answers in one mail. How's for another trial, now? Grab that pencil and put yourself in circulation. The world is listening.

Good Neighbor Policy Hobbled By Red Tape of Export Control

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—For eight long years the United States has been striving to build up the Good Neighbor policy. It has urged American business men to give more attention to Latin America, has besought Latin Americans to buy more goods from the United States, has extended half a billion dollars' worth of credits to Latin American governments to buy goods in this country.

But in a few short weeks a few red-tape-minded bureaucrats have virtually undone all this eight years' endeavor. Thanks to Export Control, thousands of Latin American orders for U. S. goods are blocked.

While on the fifth floor of the commerce department, Secretary Jesse Jones extends millions in credits to Latin American governments to buy U. S. goods, on the first floor of the commerce department Brigadier General Russell L. Maxwell, who runs the office of Export Control, prevents those goods from being shipped.

For instance, the state department, after months of diplomatic dickering, arranged with Brazil to establish important air bases in the bulge of Brazil opposite the vital air route by which Hitler could attack from Dakar, West Africa. Brazil, though a warm friend of the United States, was not super-enthusiastic about these air bases because no government welcomes foreign military establishments on its own soil. Nevertheless, Brazil consented.

Simultaneously and to aid the United States in establishing these bases, Brazil consented to build strategic highways to these air-dromes in the heart of the jungle. To build these roads Brazil needed road-building machinery. Through credits extended by Jesse Jones, bulldozers, tractors, etc., were ordered from the International Harvester company.

This order was placed last spring, but so far Brigadier General Maxwell has not permitted the machinery to move. With one stroke of the pen he has undone all the diplomatic negotiations with Brazil.

Note—In another instance of this kind, $72,000 worth of TNT ordered by Argentina and ready to be loaded on a ship dispatched specially for this purpose was directed elsewhere. Finally, just as the ship was getting ready to leave empty-handed, the British made available a quantity of TNT they were about to ship to England.

Argentina Rebuffed.

ANOTHER good friend of the United States in Latin America is the powerful newspaper, La Nacion, in Buenos Aires. It has been a vigorous opponent of Hitler and a strong friend of the United States. It exercises tremendous influence throughout South America. In mid-summer La Nacion needed to repair its type, asked to buy a small amount of zinc in the United States. But so far General Maxwell has not cut red tape sufficiently to permit the zinc to move. The state department has been dining at him. The Argentine embassy has been requesting speed. But nothing has happened.

Thus we promote Latin American good will at present. Note—Argentine packers have laid orders from U. S. firms for canned beef. But, because of obstructions here, the packers can't buy the necessary tin cans to fill the orders. Naturally this does not endear the U. S. to Argentine business men.

Red Tape Mogul.

SOME of this shutting-off of Latin American shipments is necessary for national defense, but much of it is plain, ordinary red tape which could be cut by anyone with a tape-worshipping General Maxwell.

General Maxwell is a regular army officer who takes great pains to impress upon other government officials the fact that he reports only to the president of the United States and can slip in

Anticipation

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR second boy, who is six, will start to school this year. All summer he has looked forward to the time. I saw him walk beyond the ditch upon the gravel road, and playfully enact the way he would mount the big high step of the orange school bus, when he should go along with his older brother and sister and all the other school children of our valley.

When he climbed upon my lap and wanted to talk about it, the glowing future of his anticipation did not fit his limited vocabulary. Only the shine in his blue eyes, and the eager parted lips that reveal the sawlike edges of his new front teeth told more to me than the words he tried to say.

"Daddy, I hope it won't be raining when we start. I hope the sun will shine until the bus windows look like they're afire. When it turns around out by our barn, then I'll go out to meet it—with Brother and Sis—and I'll sit on the first seat on the side toward home, and wave to you and Mom, if you stand on the front porch where I can see you.

"Then, 'fore you can say scat, the big bus'll be way down the road, with three of your children on it, and after that every morning'll be the same. Only the first one's different, isn't it Daddy? And you and Mom will watch, won't you?"

"I won't need a hat, I guess. The others don't wear 'em. I'll need a haircut, though, and a new pencil and tablet and pair of sharp scissors. I know that, 'cause the paper said for all in the first grade to bring those things. Looks like the first grade's the most important one—I didn't tell the others what to bring. Is the first grade important, Daddy?"

"We'd oughta get a new alarm clock, don't you think? I'd hate to oversleep and not be there. But no school boy can get up sooner 'n

he gets awake—now can he? I'm pretty good at football, anyway. Brother and I practiced tackling on that pig that kept getting out. He's bigger now and doesn't get out any more.

"I'll have to get used to wearing shoes and socks. It'll feel funny at first. I hope it won't feel real hot. If it does I'll throw 'em away. I hope they'll be like little boys take off their shirts, just like at home. Our backs are tanned so brown I'll look like we're wearin' one."

"The teacher's nice, I think. I saw 'em once. She said when I came to school we'd have lots of fun. Did she mean it, or was she kidding me?"

SHANGHAI HEARS JAP INTERNAL STRIFE RAGING

Nazi-Goaded Extremists Pit
Power Against Moderates Over Policy, Report.

evidence of a desire not to impair current diplomatic negotiations with Japan, was matched by no such reticence in Tokyo.

There an army spokesman declared that Japan would use force if necessary to break "encirclement" by the United States, Britain and other nations, and a foreign office spokesman indicated that Japan was renewing representations to Washington of her concern over American shipment of war supplies to Russia through Vladivostok, the Soviet Union's Pacific port of entry on the sea of Japan.

Concurrently Gen. Senjuro Hayashi, director of the powerful Asia Development federation, disclosed that Premier Prince Konohe had agreed to consider a proposal to set up a "safety zone" embracing the ocean area adjacent to the Japanese islands.

Japanese have spoken in the past of expanding their territorial waters to bring all water routes leading into Vladivostok within their sovereignty. The extent of the now proposed safety zone was not disclosed.

The Asia Development federation included the proposal in a resolution calling for speedy settlement of the war in China and establishment of the Japaneseenvisaged "co-prosperity sphere."

"The United States of late has unreasonably tightened economic pressure against Japan," the resolution asserted.

"This attempt on one hand to check our activities and on the other to supply materials to nations hostile to our Axis powers evidently is to put the European war on a long-term basis.

"We must reject all such actions on the part of the United States."

Authoritative Japanese declared that President Roosevelt's Labor day speech showed that the Atlantic agreement between him and British Prime Minister Churchill had now become the highest foreign policy of the United States.

First European Axis reaction came from Rome where it was asserted that Mr. Roosevelt's pledge to do everything possible to crush Hitlerism was inspired by personal hatred for Germany and Italy.

The president, said Il Popolo Di Roma, "does not hesitate to declare loudly that he is motivated by implacable hatred against the Axis powers, and his action, inspired by his personal sentiment
... will be conducted to the end regardless of the different opinion of any Americans."

The British press called the speech the president's most direct challenge to the Nazis and the London Daily Mail's New York correspondent reported that it was being interpreted "as foreshadowing imminent adoption of convoys
—escorting American-made war supplies to the battlefronts by American warships."

The Times of London said the speech "should put an end to the tendency which had begun to make itself felt on both sides of the Atlantic to question the effectiveness of American help in the fight against Hitlerism and the determination by which it is inspired."

Authorized quarters in Berlin held that the president's speech had developed "nothing new whatever" as to foreign policy but that it revealed Mr. Roosevelt, from the domestic viewpoint, "in the role of Kerensky."

Elaborating, they said that Alexander Kerensky, Russian Socialist leader who was briefly premier during the early stages of the revolution in 1917, tried to use bolshevism for his imperialistic plans only to learn that "bolshevism goes its own way." Similarly, they declared, Mr. Roosevelt now is "flirting with bolshevism to use it for his own ends."

London Cheered By Roosevelt Speech

LONDON — (GNS) — President Roosevelt's Labor Day pledge that the United States will do everything in its power to "crush Hitler and his Nazi forces" brought renewed cheer to embattled Britain today.

London newspapers splashed the president's radio address on their front pages, welcoming it as the "strongest pledge yet" for full United States aid.

The Times of London commented that Mr. Roosevelt's remarks
"should put an end to the tendency which has begun to make itself felt on both sides of the Atlantic against Hitlerism and the determination by which it is inspired."

FDR Plans Talks to Implement Policy

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON — President
Roosevelt began a series of conferences today to increase the implementation of his re-stated policy of marshalling the full force of America to crush Hitlerism and check its "insane violence."

Returning to the capital from Hyde Park where he made his most forceful denunciation of Nazi Germany to date, Mr. Roosevelt was to receive at the White House the first congressional reaction to his call for Americans "to do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces."

White House aides had arranged a conference for him with Vice President Henry A.

Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Alban W. Barkley, and other legislative leaders in the capital.

He is expected to confer with Secretary of State Cordell Hull before the conference.

Mr. Roosevelt's chief points in the Labor day speech which was heard around the world, were: Tremendous acceleration of American armament production, and, possibly, new orders to the navy to provide additional protection for war materials in oversea transit.

The president made clear that the only decision to be taken is to what extent America will engage itself in the world struggle.

"We are engaged on a grim and perilous task," he said. "Forces of insane violence have been let loose by Hitler upon this earth.
We must do our full part in conquering them. For these forces may be unleashed on this nation as we go about our business of protecting the proper interests of our country."

"I know that I speak the conscience and determination of the American people when I say we shall do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces."

German Press Hits President's Talk

BERLIN — (GNS) — The German press today ridiculed President Roosevelt's speech pledging to destroy Hitlerism and accused him of trying to be a "second Kerensky."

"Like Kerensky," one leading editorial said, "Roosevelt is trying to play with the Bolsheviks and at the same time use them for his own ends."

Many German newspapers stressed the portions of the president's speech dealing with labor, emphasizing that in Germany, men and women have the right to work free from the fear of strikes or lockouts.

STORM DAMAGE HITS $500,000

Hundreds Homeless In Northern
and Central Wisconsin.

ASHLAND, Wis. — (GNS) — Several hundred persons were homeless and damage mounted over the $500,000 mark today as flood waters from the Wisconsin and Chip-ewa rivers, fed by torrential week-end rains, receded slowly from ravaged sections of northern and central Wisconsin.

In the far north region of the state, the White and Bad rivers also overflowed their banks, and the Indian village of Odanah, with 200 families, had to be completely evacuated when a dam broke, sending flood waters down upon the village.

FUNERAL SET

Held Wednesday.

ASHLAND — Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday at St. Edward's chapel here for John McCormick, 75, of Oliv-burg, who died at his home this morning after a lingering illness.

Mr. McCormick was born in Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 27, 1866. He is survived by his widow, Gertrude;
one son, Marcus of Olivsburg;
one sister, Mrs. Kathryn Garvey of Newcastle, Ind.; and five grandchildren.

Burial will be in the Olivsburg cemetery.

VICHY, Unoccupied France —
(U.P.) — Pierre Laval's physicians was gravely wounded by an assassin's bullet at Versailles last Tuesday, was showing progressive im-

The condition of Marcel Deat, Laval's newspaper friend, apparently was so much improved that his physicians did not bother to issue a bulletin today.

they had been repulsed with heavy losses.

In Britain a political storm was blowing up over the question of British aid to Russia.

Jack Tanner, leader of the powerful Amalgamated Engineering Union charged that deliberate efforts are being made by officials in positions of power to sabotage British aid to the Soviet. He cited
Lieut. Col. John T. C. Moore-Brabazon, minister of aircraft production, as having expressed hope that Russia and Germany would fight each other to exhaustion, leaving Britain dominant in Europe.

There have been previous London press charges of lack of wholeheartedness in Britain's cooperation with Russia and it appeared likely that the Tanner charges would bring about a thorough thrashing out of the whole question of Anglo-Russian cooperation.

Tanner—challenged as to the truth of his charges—insisted that they could be proved.

RAF Launches New Daylight Raids

LONDON — (GNS) — British planes launched a heavy daylight sweep of the Nazi-occupied channel coast and northern France today after hammering Germany's Rhineland in a night attack that concentrated on the great industrial city of Cologne.

While the R. A. F. night attacks were in progress, German bombers raided a northeast British coastal town, causing a number of casualties.

(An official German announcement identified the British coastal town as Newcastle.)

As the R. A. F. attack on western Germany progressed, the Berlin radio ceased functioning at 10 p. m. One of the German raiders that attacked Britain was shot down in flames.

Like the previous night's Nazi raid on Hull, the new German attack was brief but sharp. The raiders attacked in small waves and poured high explosives on the northeast coastal town. Fears were expressed that casualties might prove relatively heavy.

Nazis Dump Bombs On British Port

BERLIN — (GNS) — German bombers during the night showered tons of high explosives and thousands of incendiary bombs on the northeastern English seaport of Newcastle, an official German announcement stated today.

Heavy damage resulted from the raid, according to the announcement, which added that several R. A. F. bases near Newcastle were attacked and that barracks and hangars were destroyed.

German authorities said that the German raids on Hull and Newcastle in the past two nights indicate resumption of large-scale aerial warfare against Britain and a gradual switch of "heavyweight sky action" from the eastern front back to the west.

They said this symbolized virtual completion of war in the air against the "tattered Red air force" and claimed that the Luftwaffe has established "overpowering mastery" of the skies above Russia.

Meanwhile, it was stated, "weak
R. A. F. forces" penetrated western Germany, damaging some buildings but failing to cause any military damage.

Committee To Contact For Members

Local Chapter, A.A.U.W., Will Hold Membership Drive This Season.

Mrs. George Evans, 477 Davey avenue, and Mrs. A. G. Earnshaw, 691 Stewart Lane, two young women who have come to Mansfield with their husbands within the last few years, are heading the membership work for the American Association of University Women this fall.

Mrs. Evans and her membership committee, which consists of Mrs. Paul Elliot, Mrs. Lowell Bourns, Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, Mrs. Charles Keller and Mrs. John Thorne are making extensive plans to contact women college graduates who are not already members of the organization. Mrs. Earnshaw is serving as credential chairman and it is through her hands that the college credits must pass.

Degrees from one of the 300 colleges and universities on the approved list of the association entitles the holder to membership in the national organization and to partake in all of the activities of the local branch. Mansfield admits associate members—those who have completed at least 60 hours of academic work at one of the colleges on the approved list. The number of associate memberships, however, is limited by the national organization.

The American Association of University Women is not a federation of college clubs or women's clubs but an educational organization. The association was founded in 1882 at a time when educational opportunities for women were limited. Working together, the alumnae of different colleges have worked through the years to open the doors of opportunity to women in the educational world. For more than 50 years the association has played a large part in raising standards of education for women by refusing to recognize a college for membership unless it maintains high scholastic standards, provides adequate housing and other facilities for women students, and recognizes men and women equally in its faculty and student body.

This is the reason that some of colleges are not on the Association Approved list and those that are not on the list are constantly striving to bring their standards up so that their graduates may belong to this organization.

The 17 Ohio colleges and universities meeting the requirements of National A.A.U.W. are: Baldwin-Wallace, Capital university; Heidelberg college; Huron college; Lake Erie college; Marietta college; Miami university; Mount Union college; Oberlin college; Ohio State university; Otterbein university; Ohio Wesleyan university; Western college and Western Reserve university.

As has been mentioned before, the first meeting of the Mansfield branch will be a breakfast and fall get-together at the home of Mrs. R. W. Berger, R. D. 6 at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 6.

Thirty-nine relatives, and friends were in attendance, including guests from New Washington, Sulphur Springs, Bucyrus and Fredericktown. A picnic dinner was served at the noon hour and the remainder of the day was spent socially. Mrs. Ulmer received many gifts from her friends.

Reservations for this luncheon must be in the hands of Mrs. Martha Merriam, Neil House, Columbus, Ohio, not later than Monday, September 15.

GALION COUPLE MARRIED SUNDAY

GALION—Miss Virginia Whitely, Galion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitely, Latonia, Ky., and Cecil Sulser, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sulser, South street road, Galion, were united in marriage Saturday at the First Methodist church in Covington, Ky. The double ring service was read by Rev. Jesse Murrell. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kline of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sulser left on a trip through West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Upon their return they will reside at 368½ Grove avenue. The bride was formerly employed at the Strabury Manufacturing company. Mr. Sulser, a graduate with Galion high school, is a machinist at the Galion Iron Works and Manufacturing company.

The braids are not long, some not even shoulder length, and curled slightly at the ends just after the bows begin.

The slightly older girl wears her locks brushed softly upward in a well-trained "riot" of curls. This still keeps her as young as she is, but adds the sub-deb sophistication she craves. Then there is also the straight hair-do with the ends curled softly inward at the nape of the neck.

But whatever style your daughter chooses, the elemental rule must be laid down for her if she wishes her hair to be her cardinal beauty throughout life. Teach her that cleanliness is paramount, and that there is no time limit to washing the hair. When it is dirty it must be shampooed with liquid soapless shampoo to return its healthy life and lustre.

For the young lady just early in her teens, prominent hairdressers advocate braids and bows.

Mother Should Teach Daughter Beauty Hints

From the moment mother's daughter has crossed the teenage threshold she is as beauty conscious as her sister of 20 and she wants a dressing table and mirror of her own. If mother is wise, she gets both with a few fundamental hints on good grooming thrown in.

It's the head-on start to loveliness in care of the hair that is so all important for the modern demoiselle. Both equipment and instructions are simple and easily come by and can be summed up in a few words. A good brush with penetrating bristles for daily brushing and liquid soapless shampoo that lusterizes as it cleanses for that immaculate shining look.

The paramount rule of hair cleanliness having been firmly implanted, young Eve now turns her attention to a new hair-do in keeping with her years. Since modern youth must be served, hairdressers have lately paid special attention to teen-age tresses. Fresh young features are most popularly framed in the off-the-face coiffure.

For the young lady just early in her teens, prominent hairdressers advocate braids and bows.

Don't Help Child Form Bad Habits

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Wise parents will not allow themselves to be so foolish as to laugh at any act or utterance of a child which they do not wish the child to repeat habitually. Children consider laughing praise. Usually such acts will be ignored at first. But if they show a tendency to become a habit, instant punishment should always follow the undesirable behavior. In some instances, as when the baby calls his parent an ugly name or strikes her deliberately, immediate spanking, on the first offense, will be desirable.

All too many parents, especially fathers, will tease the young child just for the fun of making him grow angry and do certain anti-social things. Unmarried uncles often are the worse offenders. They should have more sense. The hard thing about it is that the child must pay the penalty in punishment and unlike behavior.

Correct First Mistake.

Anything you do not wish to have the child do continually, try to keep him from doing just once. This principle has still wider applications. You are tempted to rock the child to sleep just this time, and to lie down beside him just once. But for the baby there is no just once in such matters. It is not too bad that grown-up people, otherwise intelligent, don't wake up to these simple inescapable facts?

If you would like to receive a list of books on manners for children and youths, write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q Suppose a child who earns high grades at school frets and worries lest they might fail or not go higher.

A Some one in his home or school connections probably has said too much about high grades and has not put sufficient values on social enjoyments.

Q What about orange juice?

A Orange juice, like milk, is a very important food for babies. On introducing orange juice into the baby's diet in his early weeks it is well to add an equal amount of water to the strained juice so the child can swallow it more easily.

Waiting to Be Called In Draft

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

About a year ago I became acquainted with a young man for whom I learned to care deeply. We went out together occasionally and he told me he loved me and asked me to wear his fraternity ring, which convinced me that he was in earnest.

He has been working but says he makes only a small salary. Recently he has been sort of drifting away, and the last time we met he told me he didn't want to waste my time, as he could not afford to marry, and that he might be called in the Draft. When I offered him his ring, he asked me to keep it as a remembrance.

Do you think I ought to reason with him? I cannot possibly forget him.

DORIS

It seems to me that you haven't very much to hope for, in this case, my dear girl. When a man tells you to forget him and that he can't afford to marry, it means usually he is trying to let you down gently. If he cared for you in the right way, he'd have more ambition to make good and wouldn't think anything about wasting your time. That sort of prudence doesn't belong to the masculine bag of tricks.

Please don't sit around and worry about it. Remember that old adage: There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My boy friend and I are in the same class at school. He has taken me out many times and has given me gifts. Would it be all right if I gave him a photograph of myself for his birthday or for Christmas? He has asked several times for my picture.

WONDERING.

It will be all right to give the boy a photograph since you're classmates and seem to have a genuine friendship for each other. Perhaps I'm a trifle straight-laced about the promiscuous handing out of photographs to which some girls yield. When I was a school-girl of 15, I happened to be visiting in a home where there was about to be a big wedding reception. The son of the house had been married a couple of weeks before, and his mother was having a party for the newlyweds.

There was a hasty call over the telephone and the young man said, "For goodness sake, mother, go through the bottom drawer of my bureau, the old wardrobe in the back hall, and that packing case in the woodshed, and burn up all those photographs." The young man was very handsome and attractive and had amassed a tremendous collection of girls' pictures.

Snapshots are always O.K., but unless you're pretty sure the young man is serious and does not just collect girls' pictures for the sake of having a collection, better be a little slow about handing out yours.

Definitely new is grated or "chunked" sweet chocolate on top of whipped cream for covering caramel pullings. The flavors do a lot for each other.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen's dramatic intuition invested his reply with a touch of the terror which had been mine, and others for me, while the gangster had been in my balcony suite.

"Your daughter was choked and nearly killed tonight by another member of the same gang, who had gained access to the balcony tonight."

My father did not even glance at the other's dramatically outstretched hand. His eyes fairly glared at the owner of the Lansfield as he uttered an oath.

"I thought a hotel of the Lansfield's caliber protected its guests," he snapped out, and turning his back peremptorily upon the majestic impresario, whose plumage already was patiently ruffled he came over to me, and looked, intently and stormily, at the imprint of the gangster's fingers upon my throat.

"Good God!" he exclaimed. "It is a miracle that you are alive and able to speak. I thought your voice sounded strained. Does your throat hurt? It must!"

He was all anxious parent, his more serious mission for the moment forgotten. I put my hands up, grasped his, and looked directly into his eyes with an urgent message in mine.

"No, my throat does not hurt," I replied, "and in justice to Mr. Veritzen and to me, I want you to listen without interruption until I have told you exactly what happened here tonight."

His impatient gaze flicked to Mary, still standing in the open door where her other-in-law's imperious gesture had halted her.

"I'll start work on this right away," she called back, and my father's approving "Good!" followed her into the next suite.

Then after he had brought a chair and put me into it, he spoke formally to Philip Veritzen.

"Please be seated," he said, but the owner of the Lansfield moved to the door his attitude stiffly uncompromising.

Madge holds Veritzen.

"I think I shall leave you, if you do not mind," he said. But, fairly leaping from my chair, I ran to him and seized his arm before he could open the door.

"You must not go!" I said peremptorily. Then, still holding his arm firmly, I turned to my father, whose astonished gaze upon a silent, resentful query to me.

"Please help me make him stay," I said, putting the request in the imperative mood. "If it had not been for him, and the wonderful hotel organization which he put at my service, I should not be alive to tell you this story."

My father is as quick to make amends as he is to make snap and sometimes — though infrequently — mistaken judgments. He advanced toward Philip Veritzen with his hand held out.

"Please forgive a father's nervous terror over a child's danger," he said. "I can see that I was totally wrong in my strictures, and I offer you a humble and sincere apology."

"Do not give it another thought," Mr. Veritzen returned.

"We only did the best we could, and I tried hard to get your daughter to give up staking herself out as a trap for the capture of the gangster, but my wife backed her up, and I had to yield. And the ruse succeeded."

"He is in custody?" my father queried. "Where?"

"At the hide-away," I returned, "with Gus."

My father went to the telephone, but, with his hand on the receiver, turned back to me.

"That can wait," he said. "He'll not get away from Gus. Tell me everything that happened to you here tonight"

Corned Beef Hash Baked By New Recipe

By BETSY NEWMAN

Corned Beef Hash stands high in the popularity food contest of North America. The recipe I'm giving you today is simple to prepare if you use canned corned beef. The bumper crop of peaches this year is responsible for all the peach recipes I'm giving you.

Today's Menu.

Baked Corned Beef Hash
Cauliflower
Apple and Celery Salad
Steamed Peach Pudding, Coffee

Baked Corned Beef Hash
2 1/2 cups or 1 12-oz. tin corned beef
2 cups diced cooked potatoes
2 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon baking powder
Salt and pepper to taste
Onion or onion and celery salt

1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 egg

Cut corned beef into small pieces, mix with cooked, diced potatoes. Sift baking powder through bread crumbs thoroughly, then add to meat and potatoes. Season to suit taste with salt and pepper, using a little onion and celery salt as part of seasoning, or add 1 finely chopped onion sauteed briefly in butter. Over this mixture pour first the milk, then melted butter, then well beaten egg, blending each thoroughly with dry mixture. Butter shallow baking dish and fill with hash. Top with few extra bread crumbs, and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350-375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Serves 6.

Steamed Peach Pudding.
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup or more sweet milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted butter
Peaches

Sift dry ingredients, add melted butter and enough milk to make a stiff dough. In steamer slice ripe peaches, filling about half full, sweeten with sugar, then cover with dough and steam for 1 hour. Don't uncover until done and ready for table. Serve with sweet cream.

MIDDLE-AGE WOMEN (38-52 yrs. old) NEED THIS ADVICE!!

If you're cross, restless, NERVOUS—suffer hot flashes, dizziness—caused by this period in a woman's life—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Made especially for women. Hundreds of thousands remarkably helped. Follow label directions. WORTH TRYING!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My boy friend and I are in the same class at school. He has taken me out many times and has given me gifts. Would it be all right if I gave him a photograph of myself for his birthday or for Christmas? He has asked several times for my picture.

WONDERING.

It will be all right to give the boy a photograph since you're classmates and seem to have a genuine friendship for each other. Perhaps I'm a trifle straight-laced about the promiscuous handing out of photographs to which some girls yield. When I was a school-girl of 15, I happened to be visiting in a home where there was about to be a big wedding reception. The son of the house had been married a couple of weeks before, and his mother was having a party for the newlyweds.

There was a hasty call over the telephone and the young man said, "For goodness sake, mother, go through the bottom drawer of my bureau, the old wardrobe in the back hall, and that packing case in the woodshed, and burn up all those photographs." The young man was very handsome and attractive and had amassed a tremendous collection of girls' pictures.

Snapshots are always O.K., but unless you're pretty sure the young man is serious and does not just collect girls' pictures for the sake of having a collection, better be a little slow about handing out yours.

Definitely new is grated or "chunked" sweet chocolate on top of whipped cream for covering caramel pullings. The flavors do a lot for each other.

Hands Play Important Part In Beauty Care

By MME. QUI VIVE

Fashions in clothes, make-up, coiffures and figures are ever in a state of evolution, this is also true of hands. Believe it or curl up your nose. Geneva Time was when the ideal hand was small, soft and dimpled. Now we consider that a beautiful hand must have certain characteristics. It must appear capable, as suits the woman of this period. It must be in proportion to the lines and weight of the body. It must be expressive, display skin of fine texture, which blessing comes from daily attention.

Hands have then seasonal beauty troubles. During the winter they chap and roughen; when the good old summertime comes blooming along they gather freckles and moth patches. There must be no let up in the business of keeping them in tip-top form. Even during warm weather they need a certain amount of lubrication to compensate for the removal of the natural oil by the frequent use of soap suds. Toiletted hands, soon does the disappearing act. Cold cream is difficult to remove isn't suitable for hand use.

Extremely dry hands are usually due to contact with hot water. They are in special need of lubrication, swelling caused by moist heat invites wrinkles.

It is necessary to keep the fingers limber. Many women do not enjoy the luxury of maid service these days, and though the masculine mind fancies that housework is merely a matter of turning on electrical gadgets, there is bound to be a certain amount of heavy work to do. One can't touch a button and have the gas range scoured and clean, nor is there any way of preparing vegetables except by one's own fair hands. Bathroom floors must be wiped up, faucets polished, closet shelves cleaned. The hands are bound to pick up dust, show evidence of labor.

When the mass-age emollient is on, how much you can force into the skin. Work it in with the thumb starting at the wrist, thumbing up to the fingertips. Mold it into the clefts around the nails. Clasp the fingers, moving them back and forth wringing the hands together. That exercise will produce a pleasant relaxation of fibers.

If the fingers feel stiff, the hands will not assume graceful poses, nor will they move beautifully. Hold the hands palms upward, spread out the fingers, bring the fingers together, thumbs overlapping. Repeat for several minutes.

The wrist must be flexible. Wave bye-bye, throwing the fingers far back, far forward. An easy wrist

MAKE THE DUMMY RUFF

MAKING the dummy ruff, with its short trump holding, is ordinarily the one thing a defender does not wish to do, because there-by he helps the declarer get rid of losers. But in some situations it is the only effective defense, perhaps in making it impossible for the declarer to take a late enough trump trick there and so have an entry to it after its side suit is set up. Upon occasion also it may well be done to force from the dummy a lead of a suit which the defender or his partner can ruff.

suits, in each of which they had the sounder holding of eight cards between them. Peculiarly either of these contracts can be beaten easily, spades by a club lead ruffed, followed by the diamond A, and clubs by means of the diamond A and a trump trick. Also peculiarly, the heart contract required the most astute defense of all, which West furnished.

After leading his diamond A, West saw that his heart Q probably would get caught in a finesse unless he could cause one chain of events. If he made dummy ruff, South would have to get to his hand to lead toward the heart K-10. If South used the spade K for this entry made the successful finesse and then laid down the heart K, he probably could not reach his hand again to drop the heart Q with the A except by leading a club to his hand. That is exactly what happened. When the club 2 was led to the K, West slapped on his heart Q beating a contract which otherwise would have been easy, as the spades would have furnished discards of the losing second diamond and a club.

CHAPTER XX

Finally word came from Dr. Malcolm that after the second blood transfusion, April had rallied.

Hill did not go back to his apartment that night, but upon the insistence of the doctor was put to bed in the hospital. It was apparent he was cracking under the strain of giving so much of his blood to save April's life, and worry over whether it was to be all in vain.

Gay could not bring herself to talk with Curt about Hill's outburst until after dinner, when they were sitting dejectedly over demitasse in the restaurant across the street from Channing hospital.

Curt seemed so depressed that Gay almost decided she would wait till the next day, but she knew if she slept over it the ordeal would be only the more difficult. Then too, there might be an unpleasant encounter with Hill, which she dreaded almost worse than anything else.

Finally Gay put down her demitasse cup and said hesitatingly: "Curt, there's something I must tell you. I don't know how to begin."

"What is it, Gay?" Curt looked up tiredly. "Don't be afraid to tell me anything it is necessary for me to know. I think by this time I ought to be able to take it. Don't you?"

His attempt to smile was a very poor one. Gay's eyes filled.

"You've been through so much, Curt, and you've been so wonderful. I don't like to add to your worries. It's about Kent Hillier."

Curt stiffened. "What about Hillier?"

"I had a long talk with him this afternoon," Gay sighed. He seems to have awakened quite suddenly to a belated sense of responsibility toward his family. He demands that you withdraw from the scene and let him take things over. Financially, I mean."

Curt said amazed: "Has he the money? I thought he was broke?"

"He has been," Gay said. "He spent all his inheritance within two or three years after he and April were married. But he sold Hillcrest, the family home in Virginia, this afternoon and took the fifteen thousand dollars and deposited it at the hospital with Dr. Malcolm."

Curt crushed out his cigarette. "So that's why Malcolm wants to see me early in the morning? I thought he looked confused when he asked me to come to his office at 9:30."

Curt ran his hand over his face nervously. "Fifteen thousand dollars won't take care of the bill if April has to stay in the hospital for months. With specialists, a staff of day and night nurses, oxygen tents, all the things she must have if she is ever to be normal again. Oh, what the devil is the man thinking about?"

Gay smiled wryly: "He even threatens to go to work." Then she sobbed. "The poor darling means it too. I feel sorry for him. He's almost crazy. I'm sure he loves April just as much as ever. It took this awful accident to wake him up."

Curt said shortly: "It's high time something did. But it's unfortunate he had to discover he has obligations right now. Just in time to interfere with what we are trying to do for April."

Curt lit another cigarette, his face grim. Then he said heatedly: "I won't have it! I have the right to take care of her. She is going to be my wife, and looking after her is my job. He had the chance once and he made a mess of things and broke her heart."

Gay said unhappily: "I know how you feel, Curt. I'm so sorry to have to tell you this."

Curt's eyes hardened: "Well, he's not going to get away with coming around after all this time and making a grand gesture! I'll punch him in the nose if he doesn't get the hell out and stop his heroics. You can tell him so. Or I'll tell him myself."

Gay was surprised at Curt's vehemence. He was usually so cool headed. She reminded him:

"Don't forget there is Kenny. Curt, Kenny is a bond between April and Hill that no divorce can change. I'm sure Hill loved his son a great deal more than he realized. He told me the reason he has stayed away from the house is because he couldn't face the realization that he had lost his son. It's perfectly natural that April's helplessness would arouse the paternal instinct in Hill."

"It would if he's human," Curt said shortly. "Which I doubt."

"What is it, Gay?"

Gay said: "I think Hill should have a chance to help April. If he can prove he is capable of swinging this thing financially, I think it would be the best thing that could ever happen to him. Money has always grown on trees for him. I don't believe he has the faintest notion how much of a job he will have on his hands taking care of these hospital bills. Promise me you'll step aside and let him find out."

When Curt looked grimly hesitant Gay urged:

"Please do it. I'll keep you informed of every move. Everything that happens. I won't let him make a change in doctors, or interfere in any way with April's care. Just let Hill think he is doing it all."

"I don't know what to say," Curt ran his hand through his hair nervously. "But since you put it that way, I guess there isn't much I can do but let Hillier step in and play the big shot."

"All right," Curt nodded. "With a deep sigh of resignation. 'Till him I'm stepping out of the picture. I hope it's what April would want us to do.'"

"I'm sure it is," Gay said unhappily. "But Hill made me swear I would never let her know what he had done. He doesn't want her to know about the blood transfusions, or about his selling Hillcrest to raise the money. I promised him I would never tell."

Curt said sarcastically: "Noble of him, I must say."

Gay smiled crookedly: "You're such a grand egg, Curt. After all this is over and you and April are married, it will be such a relief to know she is with you. You'll make it all up to her, I know. Try not to think of what's happening now."

"I'll go crazy if I do think about it," Curt motioned to the waiter for the check. "I'm going to drive you home. You've got to get some rest. You can't keep this up for ever, you know."

"I'll go," Gay got up. "I've almost forgotten what sleeping in a bed feels like."

At the door in Douglasson Court said with feeling: "Thanks, Curt. Thanks terribly for seeing things my way. I'll tell Hill in the morning the job is his."

"Very well," Curt nodded. "We'll see what the fair-haired boy will do about it. Good night, Gay. Let me know if there's anything I can do."

pital a few minutes ago and they said April is about the same. What did they tell you?"

"They gave her another blood transfusion," Gay said. "She revived a little afterward."

Gay nodded. Cherry sniffed: "I'm glad the heel is good for something."

Gay scolded: "Now, Cherry, what did I tell you about acting childish about this thing. Hill is doing everything in the world he can. He even sold Hillcrest today to get the money to pay April's hospital bills."

Cherry sat down swiftly. "Sold Hillcrest? I don't believe it!"

"He did. For fifteen thousand dollars cash. And he brought the money to the hospital and deposited it. Every penny. He's going to take care of all of April's bills."

Cherry looked dazed. "Well if that isn't a hot one! It's about time he started paying for a few things. But it still doesn't change my opinion of him. It doesn't impress me when a man waits till his wife is dying to be decent to her."

"You don't know how Hill has felt," Gay said. "He's been a great deal more broken up about the divorce than any of us realized. He cried like a baby on my shoulder this afternoon."

"He didn't?" Cherry was amazed. "Well I wonder what Dru Bayne is going to think about all this?"

"I don't think it matters much to Hill what Dru thinks," Gay said. "Hill doesn't love her. He loves April. I'm sure of it."

"What does Curt think about Hill?" Cherry asked.

"He's very decent about it, naturally," Gay's voice trailed off. She had fallen asleep on the divan. Taking a blanket from the closet Cherry covered Gay carefully and went back to her own room.

The next morning Dr. Hallin came to a decision as to April's chance to live.

DEATH RAY KILLS BACTERIA AND CAUSES MENTAL FATIGUE IN MEN

It is a magnetic device which produces 9,300 vibrations a second. This frequency is just within the upper limit of human hearing. It produces an extremely high-pitched shriek which can be heard a block away. There are several other types of vibrator which can kill microscopic life at short distances.

The machine was built by Commander A. P. Krueger, head of the navy's first mobile medical research unit, for experiments on bacteriophage, a natural substance which destroys germs. Dr. E. J. Scribner and B. B. Brown, Krueger's associates, assisted.

Individuals who stand close to the machine longer than a few minutes at a time become mentally weary, Commander Krueger said. They lose some of their ability to do mathematical problems. This effect persists for several hours.

Krueger said he had not yet investigated this by-product of the machine.

"He's very decent about it, naturally," Gay's voice trailed off. She had fallen asleep on the divan. Taking a blanket from the closet Cherry covered Gay carefully and went back to her own room.

The next morning Dr. Hallin came to a decision as to April's chance to live.

GEN. JOHNSON: Predicts Eastern Gas Station Closings

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—A new technique seems to be developing among officials under fire for falling short of performances in defense tasks. It is to say of those who comment on short-comings that they are either Nazi-agents or enemies of American defense and are playing Hitler's game by undermining American confidence in our leadership.

Thus General Ben (Yoo-Hoo) Lear makes a speech to his army command, broadcast over two networks to the United States and says that people who criticize the quality of army morale are doing that. The acting petroleum director asks whether (rather than asserts that) criticism of the woefully bungled gasoline "shortage" on the eastern seaboard isn't Nazi work. Criticisms of the overhead organization for industrial mobilization have been similarly condemned by even higher authority.

I can't speak for anybody else, but I have criticized all these things in this column—never. I think, without a constructive suggestion. According to the bare terms of these generalized accusations, some of these impatient "answers" (that answer nothing) could apply to me. If they are so intended, I have a right to know. I won't accept any such Joe Doe indictment and no man has any decent right to make such blanket accusations in response to specific questionings of his own competence without calling his shots and naming his target.

Take the one of Lear's about the evil of suggesting that army morale isn't as high as it should be. By most realistic officers, the charge is freely admitted. Every military expert knows that it is true. The responsibility is squarely upon army command, although it has been attempted to be shifted to almost every bystander. Every one of my comments upon it have been to say that time and patience and recognition of the evil will surely cure it, because the soldier material is the best we have ever had. Not to recognize it is ostrich stuff.

This column never criticized Ben Lear for disciplining some soldiers who "yoo-hooed" some cutes on golf course and especially for giving him a Bronx cheer when, camouflaged in civilian clothes, he began bellowing at them like a bull. But now that he brings the subject up, disciplining a whole battalion for the fault of a few fools, from the morale standpoint, is of itself sheer loud-mouthed incompetence in an officer.

On the eastern "gas shortage," my comment was that there was none, but only a transportation shortage, which could and should have been remedied long ago by several devices. Several weeks ago, I suggested that one of the remedies was towing in barges. That was pool-poohed as amateur and incompetent. Today, several weeks later, the maritime commission is advertising for bids for barges.

For two years I have criticized the industrial mobilization overhead with specific suggestions for improvement. Today, nearly all of those suggestions are being applied. The best organization plan won't work without competent personnel. On the latter question, I have my fingers crossed, willing to be convinced, but the constructive criticism of organization has borne fruit. Would it have happened without criticism—that of others as well as mine? Horsefeathers! That brings up the whole question of criticism of method being inimical to defense. This column has been shouting for motorization, mechanization, industrial mobilization, selective service and adequate defense during its entire life and this writer, for a longer time. During most of these years, all these Johnny-Come-Latelies either didn't know what it was all about or, if they did, didn't have the guts to say what they knew.

That is past history, but if any of them are "alludin' at me," I want them to say so in plain Oklahoma language. If I use this column to take them apart, they are welcome to use its 620 words to put themselves together again, if they can, which I doubt if they can do.

STAGE SET FOR
BATTLE ON U. S.
FOREIGN POLICYWillkie To Appear as Senate Group Plans Hearing on Movie 'Propaganda.'

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—The stage is being set today for a battle over international policy with Wendell L. Willkie, recent Republican candidate for president, pitted in a stellar role against aggressive senate non-interventionists.

The stage will be a hearing of a senate interstate commerce committee on the resolutions of Sens. Bennett Clark, (D.) Mo., and Nye, (R.) N. D., for an investigation of war and foreign propaganda in the movies.

The hearing was scheduled to open tomorrow, but may be postponed for a week or 10 days. Willkie formally notified the committee that he will appear as counsel for motion picture interests.

Clark and Nye will battle against Willkie. They are scheduled to occupy the first three days of the hearing in an effort to prove that motion pictures have been used to stir up war propaganda.

The hearing is technically to decide whether the subcommittee shall recommend adoption of the Clark-Nye resolution for a formal investigation. The hearing, however, will be so extensive that it will amount to an inquiry.

Sen. Worth Clark, (D.) Idaho, foe of war and chairman of the subcommittee, said that Clark and Nye will be followed on the witness stand by Jimmy Fidler, Hollywood movie commentator and writer.

Then the big motion picture interests will present their defense. He said that Nicholas Schenck, representing Loew's; Harry Warner, representing Warner Bros.; Barney Balaban, representing Paramount, and Darryl Zanuck, representing Twentieth Century-Fox, will appear.

Will H. Hays, motion picture czar, has asked to be heard, and already has issued a stinging denial that the movies are engaged in un-American propaganda.

MORE REVENUE
SEEN IN BILLSen. George Predicts Tax Measure Will Raise
$4,500,000,000.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—As the senate finance committee met for final action on the biggest tax bill in the republic's history, Chairman George (D-Ga.) said today that the measure might raise approximately $4,500,000,000 annually.

The treasury has estimated that the measure would yield only $3,672,400,000, but George told reporters that this figure was necessarily conservative.

George said that if his calculations of a $4,500,000,000 yield proved correct, federal revenues would approach $15,000,000,000 next year.

Although several controversial items may develop considerable opposition, George appeared optimistic that the revenue measure would be approved by next Saturday night.

He said that if the bill—carrying $456,400,000 more than the treasury-estimated house total—were passed in substantially its present form there would be little difficulty in adjusting senate changes when a joint conference committee considers the measure.

Topping the list of senate committee changes was an amendment to cut from $2,000 to $1,500 the income exemption for married persons and from $800 to $750 the exemption for single persons. The changes would raise approximately $300,000,000 annually and would require 6,000,000 additional persons to file income tax returns.

SEEK MOTIVE IN DOUBLE SLAYINGPolice Probe Murder, Suicide Case
At Canton.

CANTON—(INS)—Police attempted today to learn the motive for a murder and suicide committed by 19-year-old Robert Garrison, who shot himself after fatally wounding his 17-year-old fiancée, Clara Tubbs, as they sat in Garrison's automobile.

Coroner Edward C. Reno said Garrison fired two bullets into the girl's head with a .25-caliber automatic pistol, then drove a few blocks before firing a third bullet into her head and turning the gun on himself.

Friends told authorities the couple had planned to be married on Clara's 18th birthday, Dec. 15.

EXPECT RUSSIAN FLYING BOATS
TO RESUME MYSTERY TRIP TODAY

(By United Press)
NOME, Alaska—Two big Russian flying boats, on route to Washington with 47 Soviet emissaries on a mission of extreme secrecy, are expected to take off today.

Anthony Fedotov, secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, conferred with the mission last night. He said reports that many of the Russians had come to ferry American built bombers back home and that the mission seeks United States credits for war purchases were "nonsense."

"The flight's mission must remain a secret for the time being," he said.

Fedotov would not comment on the possibility that he will accompany the mission to Washington.

He arrived last night by plane from Fairbanks, Alaska, and immediately began a conference with the emissaries in the U. S. air base barracks, where they were lodged.

The flying boats were ready to leave; they were refueled shortly after they arrived Sunday.

The route the planes will take to Washington was not announced. They flew to Nome via the "great circle route," a continuation of it—southeasterly through the Yukon territory, northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and probably Minnesota—would be the shortest route to Washington.

The United States government apparently knows the Russians' plans because three U. S. medium bombers flew out Sunday and escorted them to a landing on Norton Sound at Nome.

Laff-a-Day

RETAIL LEADER
SEES 'HOLIDAY'
FOR DEALERSDeclares 100,000 Stations To Close Unless United States
Insures Margin.

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA—A general stoppage of service at most of the eastern seaboard's 100,000 gasoline stations is held out as a possibility unless the government insures the dealers a "living margin."

This was predicted by Benjamin L. Jacoby, head of the Associated Gasoline Retailers of Philadelphia and vicinity, who said such a holiday will be discussed along with gasless Sundays by the eastern states conference of gasoline retailers opening here today.

"The dealers are going to protest all phases of this curtailment to Washington, to President Roosevelt himself if necessary," declared Jacoby.

He said station operators were being driven to consider closing by new government regulations effective yesterday under which stations from Maine to Florida were put on a September gasoline quota 15 per cent under their July sales to counteract the oil shortage.

Asserting acting petroleum coordinator Ralph K. Davies who fixed the quota "doesn't know the first thing about the gasoline business," Jacoby claimed July was a poor month because of vacations and that by basing the quota on a month of low sales the actual reduction would be about 25 per cent.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson set a maximum fair price of 18½ cents here—four cents above tank wagon rates—although some charged more. Jacoby said the government must permit dealers to boost prices sufficiently to offset their losses in sales volume, otherwise:

"Dealers will have to be kept in business on a curtailed basis by a direct government subsidy or will find it just about as cheap to close up and lose money as to stay open and lose money under the present government setup."

Jacoby asserted that if 20,000 dealers which the 17-state eastern conference members claim to represent would close their stations for only three or four days, "the nation would soon recognize the need for keeping them open. Even the defense program would feel it."

"As for the oil shortage that they say is the cause of it all," he continued, "I don't believe there is such a thing. I'd like them to show me. There are plenty of tank cars available to haul the oil east if the big companies wanted to pay the extra freight."

A railroad spokesman said carriers linking the gas-thirsty eastern seaboard with Texas and Oklahoma oil fields have slashed their crude oil freight rates 50 per cent to facilitate shipments but Samuel B. Eckert, Sun Oil vice president in charge of sales, estimated not more than five per cent of the oil and gas used in the east could be moved by tank cars.

Warehouse Swept
By Flames; Wheat,
Oil Destroyed

PORT COSTA, Cal.—(INS)—Fire of undetermined origin swept through a block long warehouse today, destroying a large supply of government-stored wheat and fish oil.

The wheat was believed destined for China.

Two barges and a tugboat which caught fire were towed into Carquinez straits on which the warehouse fronts.

Because the fire, which could be seen 14 miles away, gained tremendous headway in a brief period, police investigated the possibility of sabotage. The Federal Bureau of Investigation field office in San Francisco said a routine investigation probably would be made but that no request for an FBI probe has been received.

CHAPTER XX

Finally word came from Dr. Malcolm that after the second blood transfusion, April had rallied.

Hill did not go back to his apartment that night, but upon the insistence of the doctor was put to bed in the hospital. It was apparent he was cracking under the strain of giving so much of his blood to save April's life, and worry over whether it was to be all in vain.

Gay could not bring herself to talk with Curt about Hill's outbreak until after dinner, when they were sitting dejectedly over demitasse in the restaurant across the street from Channing hospital.

Curt seemed so depressed that Gay almost decided she would wait till the next day, but she knew that would be only the more difficult. Then, too, there might be an unpleasant encounter with Hill, which she dreaded almost worse than anything else.

Finally Gay put down her demitasse cup and said hesitatingly: "Curt, there's something I must tell you. I don't know how to begin."

"What is it, Gay?" Curt looked up tiredly. "Don't be afraid to tell me anything it is necessary for me to know. I think by this time I ought to be able to take it. Don't you?"

His attempt to smile was a very poor one. Gay's eyes filled.

"You've been through so much, Curt, and you've been so wonderful. I don't like to add to your worries. It's about Kent Hillier."

Curt stiffened. "What about Hillier?"

"I had a long talk with him this afternoon," Gay sighed. "He seems to have awakened quite suddenly to a belated sense of responsibility toward his family. He demands that you withdraw from the scene and let him take things over. Financially, I mean."

Curt said amazed: "Has he the money? I thought he was broke."

"He has been," Gay said. "He spent all his inheritance within two or three years after he and April were married. But he sold Hillcrest, the family home in Virginia, this afternoon and took the fifteen thousand dollars and deposited it at the hospital with Dr. Malcolm."

Curt crushed out his cigarette: "So that's why Malcolm wants to see me early in the morning? I thought he looked confused when he asked me to come to his office at 9:30."

Curt ran his hand over his face nervously. "Fifteen thousand dollars won't take care of the bill if April has to stay in the hospital for months. With specialists, a staff of day and night nurses, oxygen tents, all the things she must have if she is ever to be normal again. Oh, what the devil is the man thinking about?"

Gay smiled wryly: "He even threatens to go to work." Then she sobered. "The poor darling means it too. I feel sorry for him. He's almost crazy. I'm sure he loves April just as much as ever. It took this awful accident to wake him up."

Curt said shortly: "It's high time something did. But it's unfortunate he had to discover he has obligations right now. Just in time to interfere with what we are trying to do for April."

Gay sighed: "It certainly is the wrong time. But I don't know what we can do about it."

Curt lit another cigarette, his face grim. Then he said heatedly: "I won't have it! I have the right to take care of her. She is going to be my wife, and looking after her is my job. He had the chance once and he made a mess of things and broke her heart."

Gay said unapologetically: "I know how you feel, Curt. I'm so sorry to have to tell you this."

Curt's eyes hardened: "Well, he's not going to get away with coming around after all this time and making a grand gesture! I'll punch him in the nose if he doesn't get the hell out and stop his heroics. You can tell him so. Or I'll tell him myself."

Gay was surprised at Curt's vehemence. He was usually so cool headed. She reminded him: "Don't forget there is Kenny. Curt, Kenny is a bond between April and Hill that no divorce can change. I'm sure Hill loved his son a great deal more than we realized. He told me the reason he has stayed away from the house is because he couldn't face the realization that he had lost his son. It's perfectly natural that April's helplessness would arouse the paternal instinct in Hill."

"It would if he's human," Curt said shortly. "Which I doubt."

"He's human all right. He just hasn't grown up. He's still a boy. I want you to promise something, Curt."

"What is it, Gay?"

Gay said: "I think Hill should have a chance to help April. If he can prove he is capable of swinging this thing financially. I think it would be the best thing that could ever happen to him. Money has always grown on trees for him. I don't believe he has the faintest notion how much of a job he will have on his hands taking care of these hospital bills. Promise me you'll step aside and let him find out."

When Curt looked grimly hesitant Gay urged: "Please do it. I'll keep you informed of every move. Everything that happens. I won't let him make a change in doctors, or interfere in any way with April's care. Just let Hill think he is doing it all."

"I don't know what to say," Curt ran his hand through his hair nervously. "But since you put it that way, I guess there isn't much I can do but let Hillier step in and play the big shot."

"Don't worry about it," Gay was relieved. "Just leave it to me. It really won't make a particle of difference. It's just an experiment. A chance to show Hill what responsibility means."

"All right," Curt nodded. "With a deep sigh of resignation. 'Tell him I'm stepping out of the picture. I hope it's what April would want us to do.'"

"I'm sure it is," Gay said unhesitatingly. "But Hill made me swear I would never let her know what he had done. He

Curt said sarcastically: "Noble of him, I must say."

Gay smiled crookedly: "You're such a grand egg, Curt. After all this is over and you and April are married, it will be such a relief to know she is with you. You'll make it all up to her, I know. Try not to think of what's happening now."

"I'll go crazy if I do think about it," Curt motioned to the waiter for the check. "I'm going to drive you home. You've got to get some rest. You can't keep this up for ever, you know."

"I'll go," Gay got up. "I've almost forgotten what sleeping in a bed feels like."

At the door in Douglassland, Curt said with feeling: "Thanks, Curt. Thanks terribly for seeing things my way. I'll tell Hill in the morning the job is his."

"Very well," Curt nodded. "We'll see what the fair-haired boy will do about it. Good night, Gay. Let me know if there's anything I can do."

pital a few minutes ago and they said April is about the same. What did they tell you?"

"They gave her another blood transfusion," Gay said. "She received a little afterward."

"Did Hill sacrifice his heart's blood?"

Gay nodded. Cherry sniffed: "I'm glad the heel is good for something."

Gay smiled: "Now, Cherry, what did I tell you about acting childish about this thing. Hill is doing everything in the world he can. He even sold Hillcrest today to get the money to pay April's hospital bills."

Cherry sat down swiftly. "Sold Hillcrest? I don't believe it!"

"He did. For fifteen thousand dollars cash. And he brought the money to the hospital and deposited it. Every penny. He's going to take care of all of April's bills."

Cherry looked dazed. "Well if that isn't a hot one! It's about time he started paying for a few things. But it still doesn't change my opinion of him. It doesn't impress me when a man waits till his wife is dying to be decent to her."

"You don't know how Hill has felt," Gay said. "He's been a great deal more broken up about the divorce than any of us realized. He cried like a baby on my shoulder this afternoon."

"He didn't?" Cherry was amazed. "Well I wonder what Dru Bayne is going to think about all this?"

"I don't think it matters much to Hill what Dru thinks," Gay said. "Hill doesn't love her. He loves April. I'm sure of it."

"What does Curt think about all this?" Cherry asked.

DEATH RAY KILLS BACTERIA AND CAUSES MENTAL FATIGUE IN MEN

death ray developed by an American naval officer—It kills bacteria at a distance of six inches—can cause mental fatigue in humans.

It is a magnetic device which produces 9,300 vibrations a second. This frequency is just within the upper limit of human hearing. It produces an extremely high-pitched shriek which can be heard a block away. There are several other types of vibrator which can kill microscopic life at short distances.

The machine was built by Commander A. P. Krueger, head of the navy's first mobile medical research unit, for experiments on bacteriophage, a natural substance which destroys germs. Dr. E. J. Scribner and B. B. Brown, Krueger's associates, assisted.

Individuals who stand close to the machine longer than a few minutes at a time become mentally weary, Commander Krueger said. They lose some of their ability to do mathematical problems. This effect persists for several hours.

Krueger said he had not yet investigated this by-product of the machine.

"He's very decent about it, naturally," Gay's voice trailed off. She had fallen asleep on the divan. Taking a blanket from the closet Cherry covered Gay carefully and went back to her own room.

The next morning Dr. Hallin came to a decision as to April's chance to live.

Bullfrogs Follow Heavy Rains Into Texas Panhandle

TURKEY, Tex.—(AP)—Turkey is in the Texas Panhandle and bullfrogs surround Turkey. It isn't the heat, it's the 22 inches of rain since Jan. 1, downpours which have eradicated all traces of the parched area once made nationally prominent as the country's dustiest dust bowl, so dry that even the horned frogs left in disgust.

But whereas the horned frog likes his dry terrain, his first cousin, the bull frog likes it the other way round and now millions of the latter are making life miserable for Turkey inhabitants with their eternal chorus of croaking.

"And they've trampled out the wheat," one Panhandle editor remarked.

The folks up this way recall the good old days when they all they had to worry about was a nice, big black duster.

On the back of each payroll check is stamped a pledge to "support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic."

GEN. JOHNSON: Predicts Eastern Gas Station Closings

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON—A new technique seems to be developing among officials under fire for falling short of performances in defense tasks. It is to say of those who comment on short-comings that they are either Nazi-agents or enemies of American defense and are playing Hitler's game by undermining American confidence in our leadership.

Thus General Ben (Yoo-Hoo) Lear makes a speech to his army command, broadcast over two networks to the United States and says that people who criticize the quality of army morale are doing that. The acting petroleum director asks whether (rather than asserts that) criticism of the woefully bungled gasoline "shortage" on the eastern seaboard isn't Nazi work. Criticisms of the overhead organization for industrial mobilization have been similarly condemned by even higher authority.

I can't speak for anybody else, but I have criticized all these things in this column—never. I think, without a constructive suggestion. According to the bare terms of these generalized accusations, some of these impatient "answers" (that answer nothing) could apply to me. If they are so intended, I have a right to know. I won't accept any such Joe Doe indictment and no man has any decent right to make such blanket accusations in response to specific questionings of his own competence without calling his shots and naming his target.

Take the one of Lear's about the evil of suggesting that army morale isn't as high as it should be. By most realistic officers, the charge is freely admitted. Every military expert knows that it is true. The responsibility is squarely upon army command, although it has been attempted to be shifted to almost every bystander. Every one of my comments upon it have been to say that time and patience and recognition of the evil will

This column never criticized Ben Lear for disciplining some soldiers who "yoo-hooed" some cuties on golf course and especially for giving him a Bronx cheer when, camouflaged in civilian clothes, he began belting at them like a bull. But now that he brings the subject up, disciplining a whole battalion for the fault of a few fools, from the morale standpoint, is of itself sheer loud-mouthed incompetence in an officer.

On the eastern "gas shortage," my comment was that there was none, but only a transportation shortage, which could and should have been remedied long ago by several devices. Several weeks ago, I suggested that one of the remedies was towing in barges. That was pooh-poohed as amateur and incompetent. Today, several weeks later, the maritime commission is advertising for bids for barges.

For two years I have criticized the industrial mobilization overhead with specific suggestions for improvement. Today, nearly all of those suggestions are being applied. The best organization plan won't work without competent personnel. On the latter question, I have my fingers crossed, willing to be convinced, but the constructive criticism of organization has borne fruit. Would it have happened without criticism—that of others as well as mine? Horsefeathers! That brings up the whole question of criticism of method being inimical to defense. This column has been shouting for motorization, mechanization, industrial mobilization, selective service and adequate defense during its entire life and this writer for a longer time. During most of these years, all these Johnny-Come-Latelies either didn't know what it was all about or, if they did, didn't have the guts to say what they knew.

That is past history, but if any of them are "alludin' at me," I want them to say so in plain Oklahoma language. If I use this column to take them apart, they are welcome to use its 620 words to put themselves together again, if they can, which I doubt if they can do.

STAGE SET FOR
BATTLE ON U. S.
FOREIGN POLICY

Willkie To Appear as Senate
Group Plans Hearing on
Movie 'Propaganda.'

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—The stage is being set today for a battle over international policy with Wendell L. Willkie, recent Republican candidate for president, pitted in a stellar role against aggressive senate non-interventionists.

The stage will be a hearing of a senate inter-branch commerce committee on the resolutions of Sens. Bennett Clark, (D.) Mo., and Nye, (R.) N. D., for an investigation of war and foreign propaganda in the movies.

The hearing was scheduled to open tomorrow, but may be postponed for a week or 10 days. Willkie formally notified the committee that he will appear as counsel for motion picture interests.

Clark and Nye will battle against Willkie. They are scheduled to occupy the first three days of the hearing in an effort to prove that motion pictures have been used to stir up war propaganda.

The hearing is technically to decide whether the subcommittee shall recommend adoption of the Clark-Nye resolution for a formal investigation. The hearing, however, will be so extensive that it will amount to an inquiry.

Sen. Worth Clark, (D.) Idaho, foe of war and chairman of the subcommittee, said that Clark and Nye will be followed on the witness stand by Jimmy Fidler, Hollywood movie commentator and writer.

Then the big motion picture interests will present their defense. He said that Nicholas Schenck, representing Loew's, Harry Warner, representing Warner Bros., Barney Balaban, representing Paramount, and Darryl Zanuck, representing Twentieth Century-Fox, will appear.

Will H. Hays, motion picture czar, has asked to be heard, and already has issued a stinging denial that the movies are engaged in un-American propaganda.

MORE REVENUE
SEEN IN BILL

Sen. George Predicts Tax
Measure Will Raise
$4,500,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—As the senate finance committee met for final action on the biggest tax bill in the republic's history, Chairman George (D-Ga.) said today that the measure might raise approximately $4,500,000,000 annually.

The treasury has estimated that the measure would yield only $3,672,400,000, but George told reporters that this figure was necessarily conservative.

George said that if his calculations of a $4,500,000,000 yield proved correct, federal revenues would approach $15,000,000,000 next year.

Although several controversial items may develop considerable senate debate, George appeared optimistic that the revenue measure would be approved by next Saturday night.

He said that if the bill—carrying $456,400,000 more than the treasury-estimated house total—were passed in substantially its present form there would be little difficulty in adjusting Senate changes when a joint conference committee considers the measure.

Topping the list of senate committee changes was an amendment to cut from $2,000 to $1,500 the income exemption for married persons and from $800 to $750 the exemption for single persons. The changes would raise approximately $300,000,000 annually and would require 6,000,000 additional persons to file income tax returns.

EXPECT RUSSIAN FLYING BOATS

(By United Press)

NOME, Alaska—Two big Russian flying boats, on route to Washington with 47 Soviet emissaries on a mission of extreme secrecy, are expected to take off today.

Anthony Fedetov, secretary of the Soviet embassy in Washington, conferred with the mission last night. He said reports that many of the Russians had come to ferry American built bombers back home and that the mission seeks United States credits for war purchases were "nonsense."

"The flight's mission must remain a secret for the time being," he said.

Fedetov would not comment on the possibility that he will accompany the mission to Washington.

He arrived last night by plane from Fairbanks, Alaska, and immediately began a conference with the emissaries in the U. S. air base barracks, where they were lodged.

The flying boats were ready to leave; they were refueled shortly after they arrived Sunday.

The route the planes will take to Washington was not announced. They flew to Nome via the "great circle route," a continuation of it—southeasterly through the Yukon territory, northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and probably Minnesota—would be the shortest route to Washington.

The United States government apparently knows the Russians' plans because three U. S. medium bombers flew out Sunday and escorted them to a landing on Norton Sound at Nome.

Two automobiles parked at the home of Mrs. Anna Belle Shryock, west of Five Points, and another in Ontario were burglarized Sunday night, the sheriff said today.

W. H. Williams, Cleveland, visiting at the Shryock home, said a clock, a woman's coat, a pair of men's shoes, flashlight, and six packs of cigarettes were taken from his car.

A spare tire and wheel and a dress were taken from Mrs. Shryock's car which was parked nearby, while Russell DeVore, Ontario, reported that his coat was stolen from his car which was parked in Ontario.

CHICAGO—(U.S.)—Fifteen-year-old Betty Smith shot and killed herself only a few moments after she had received a note from a boy of 16 saying he no longer wished to see her, police reported today.

Authorities said the girl spent most of yesterday with Edward Bearby, 16, at a beach. The youngsters quarreled, and when he arrived home Bearby sent Betty a note telling her of his decision to break off their friendship.

Not long afterward, young Bearby decided perhaps he had been hasty, and rode his bicycle to Betty's home. He found the girl dead, with a bullet wound in the chest. Beside the body was a hunting rifle, and Bearby's note.

RETAIL LEADER
SEES 'HOLIDAY' FOR DEALERS

Declares 100,000 Stations To Close Unless United States
Insures Margin.

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA—A general stoppage of service at most of the eastern seaboard's 100,000 gasoline stations is held out as a possibility unless the government insures the dealers a "living margin."

This was predicted by Benjamin L. Jacoby, head of the Associated Gasoline Retailers of Philadelphia and vicinity, who said such a holiday will be discussed along with gasless Sundays by the eastern states conference of gasoline retailers opening here today.

"The dealers are going to protest all phases of this curtailment to Washington, to President Roosevelt himself if necessary," declared Jacoby.

He said station operators were being driven to consider closing by new government regulations effective yesterday under which stations from Maine to Florida were put on a September gasoline quota 15 per cent under their July sales to counteract the oil shortage.

Asserting acting petroleum coordinator Ralph K. Davies who fixed the quota "doesn't know the first thing about the gasoline business," Jacoby claimed July was a poor month because of vacations and that by basing the quota on a month of low sales the actual reduction would be about 25 per cent.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson set a maximum fair price of 18 1/2 cents here—four cents above tank wagon rates—although some charged more. Jacoby said the government must permit dealers to boost prices sufficiently to offset their losses in sales volume, otherwise:

Jacoby asserted that if 90,000 dealers which the 17-state eastern conference members claim to represent would close their stations for only three or four days, "the nation would soon recognize the need for keeping them open. Even the defense program would feel it."

"As for the oil shortage that they say is the cause of it all," he continued, "I don't believe there is such a thing. I'd like them to show me. There are plenty of tank cars available to haul the oil east if the big companies wanted to pay the extra freight."

A railroad spokesman said carriers linking the gas-thirsty eastern seaboard with Texas and Oklahoma oil fields have slashed their crude oil freight rates 50 per cent to facilitate shipments but Samuel B. Eckert, Sun Oil vice president in charge of sales, estimated not more than five per cent of the oil and gas used in the east could be moved by tank cars.

Young Beck, a pilot for the American Airlines, answered queries about his job. Only 23, he is one of the line's leading pilots, operating between Cleveland and Nashville, Tenn. His parents were in Cleveland to see and hear the broadcast.

Eighty-four members of the Robin Hood club, summer reading course sponsored by Mansfield Public Library, are eligible for certificates showing that they have submitted written reports on 10 books read during the summer months, according to Miss Myra Lorimer, children's librarian. Approximately 1,050 reports were submitted by 147 of the 198 enrolled members. A Saturday morning entertainment featured by the presentation of certificates is scheduled for an early date.

One of Mansfield's student pilots came near "cracking up" the other evening, but it wasn't in an airplane. M. K. Himmelman, Saginaw, Mich., one of the trainees enrolled in the CPT course at the airport, went to the movie to see the current attraction, "Dive Bomber." He became so interested in the picture that when the flier came near wrecking the ship he was piloting, Himmelman, in trying to assist the actor to right the ship, fell out of his seat. He was not injured.

Mansfield Ends Season With 11 to 6 Victory Over Hens

There was plenty of dirty work at the cross roads this past week as the Ohio State league roared into its stretch dash with Fremont and Mansfield battling for the old peanut.

All on the up and up, you understand, but not exactly cricket.

Just on the face of early returns, you gain the impression that Findlay and Tiffin lined up with Fremont, and that Fostoria and Lima were battling on the side of the Mansfield Braves.

It all started early in the week when Mansfield took two out of three from Fremont, beating the Green Sox mound aces, Jim Stasatis and Lefty Lloyd Fisher, and leaving the Hens with nothing but deuces in the hole. The deuces may have been wild but not in the poker sense of the term.

Before the series Manager Chapman of the Green Sox was quoted in the Fremont paper as saying that if Fremont should lose two of the three games with the Braves, he would play a pair of doubleheaders with Findlay to boost his win total.

He had two postponed games with Findlay and under the rules of organized baseball he had to play them off in doubleheaders if he had the opportunity.

But when Chappie found himself short on pitchers he got together with Grover Hartley, boss of the Findlay Oilers, and called the doubleheaders off.

Even if Fremont had won all four games, two doubleheaders in two days would have taxed an already tired hurling staff so that it might not have won another game the rest of the season.

Explained Grover Hartley to the Mansfielders: "I saw a chance to save on lights, and agreed to calling off the doubleheaders. Besides, I thought I was doing you guys a favor. They'd have beaten us four games, even with outfielders pitching. We can't hit a lick."

Yes, Grover was doing Mansfield a favor. He just saved his only good pitchers for the Mansfield series immediately following.

But that wasn't all the dirty work, my friends, and Mansfield's hands were none too clean when it was over. Playing a double header Friday night with Findlay, when none was scheduled, was nothing more than an attempt to steal an illegitimate march on Fremont. The plan backfired, when the Braves lost the second game, but it wouldn't have worked anyhow.

And now how about the other three clubs in the league?

Both Lima and Fostoria saved their good pitchers for Fremont and Lima managed to split even with the Green Sox while Fostoria bumped off the Hens in the first game of their Sunday win.

Fostoria even sent Catcher Stevens to the ball Saturday night to save Pontone and Shesha for the Sox on Sunday and took a 5-0 Sox on Sunday night, turning on Tiffin just to help the Braves.

Never strong on pitchers, Tiffin sent his ace, Don Bawles, against the Braves Sunday, out of turn, to knock Mansfield out of the title chase.

Tiffin had good reason for wanting to bump Mansfield off. You'll recall that on the last night of the first half season, Tiffin had a chance to edge out Fremont, but that Mansfield won a doubleheader at Tiffin and went into second place.

Takes Coolidge Golf Finals

Steve Sturtzinger took the championship round of the Coolidge golf club yesterday when he carded 142 for 36 holes to beat Jim Muselle two up.

In the other flight, Clare Bell beat John Jacha one up at the end of 18 holes. Tony Schadek downed Dick Olin five and three, and Joe Zimmerman headed John Workman two up.

Cleveland Stays In 4th Place

White Sox Hang Double Defeat on Tribesmen.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Indians, who dropped into fourth place two weeks ago when they opened a long home stay, headed into a long road trip today in the same spot.

They won six of their 17 games during the visit with the home fans, and will play only four more local contests during the rest of the season, three weeks from now. After an exhibition contest at Zanesville tonight, they will rest Wednesday before tackling the Tigers Thursday in Detroit.

Yesterday the Tribe had a chance to grab third, or even second place as it entered a doubleheader only one game behind the White Sox and one and a half lengths behind Boston. But the White Sox administered a 7 to 3 defeat in the first half and then took a 12-inning afterpiece, 4 to 3.

Thornton (Lefty) Lee, erstwhile Indian, got his 18th victory in the first game, although he allowed Cleveland 13 hits. Jim Bagby was the loser.

The nightcap went to extra innings when an error by Lou Boudreau let Ben Chapman get to third, after which he scored the tying run on a fly by Dario Lodigiani. In the 12th, Al Milnar walked Taft Wright, Luke Appling singled and Lodigiani sacrificed. Steve Gromek relieved Milnar, walked Solters to fill the bases. Turner hitting a long fly which sent home the winning run. Johnny Rigney was the winning pitcher.

The same subway that goes to Ebbets Field in Brooklyn also runs to Coney Island, and there are about as many sidehows at one stop as at the other.

But the people who have been rushing to the circus at Ebbets Field are beginning to wonder whether the main show may be (Continued on Page 11)

Fran Knapp Hurls No-Hit Victory

Mansfield's state champion Provident Loan girls' softball team yesterday blanked the Ranger A. C. of Cleveland 8 to 0 in the softball carnival at New London.

It was a no-hit, no-run victory for Fran Knapp, who fanned seven batters and walked three. Her teammates were guilty of four misplays, but gave her plenty of support at bat, with eight hits, including a triple by Sturgeon and a double by Holida.

The Providents play at Ashland tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

SLATES 'C' LEAGUE BOWLING MEETING

A meeting of all "C" bowlers was slated by Frank Mayer, league president, for 7:30 p. m. today at the new Colony bowling alleys.

Mayer said both bowlers and sponsors were invited to the meeting which will plan organization of the fall's bowling activities.

Breaks Even Over Weekend

Plymouth Loses to Norwalk But Downs Wellington.

After dropping a heartbreaker to Norwalk Keller Newbies by one point, Sunday at Norwalk, the Plymouth Locomotives baseball team came back yesterday to drop Wellington 8 and 1 at the New London Labor day celebration.

Fred Buzard, Plymouth shortstop led his team in hitting yesterday with three bingles for five times at the plate, driving in two runs and scoring three times himself.

Owens started on the mound for Plymouth but pulled a muscle while whalloping a homer in the third and had to be relieved by Staples who went on to pitch no-hit, no-run ball for the remaining six frames.

In Sunday's tilt, Puckrin matched a third inning Plymouth run in the fourth inning with a homer and Meacer stopped another Plymouth bid in the ninth by pulling Buzard's drive off the fence to retire the side leaving two on the bases.

Mansfield Dog Wins Line Title

KENTON—(AP)—A mixed black and tan dog which cost Raymond Stungley of Wilmington, O., a dollar as a three-month-old pup, is the champion conhound of North America.

The dog, named "Ham," won the title plus $500 and a loving cup for Stungley at final runs in the Leaky Oak field trials yesterday.

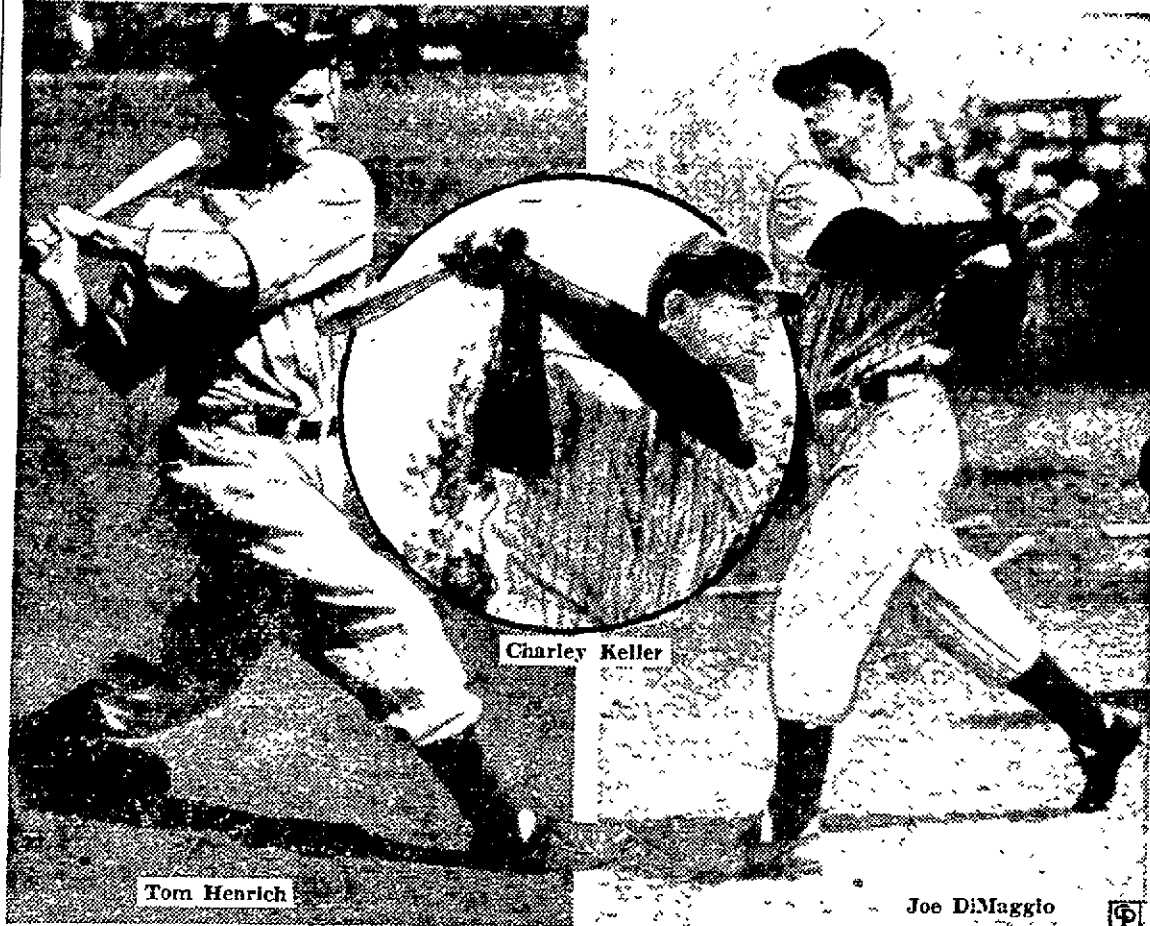

"Ham" also took first tree and second line prizes.

"Ohio Prince Eight," owned by Roy Metz of Mansfield, also won $500. He was named line champion, took the tree trial in opening events Sunday, and captured three heats yesterday.

Other finalists were "Heads Up," owned by Stewart Plank of Columbus, and "Blue Sail Bluebird," the 1940 champion, owned by L. B. Baker and son of Norwich, O.

The United Kennel club's registered pup derby was won by "Runt," owned by Carl Warwick of Mansburg, O.

Yankee Outfield Tries For 100 Homers

The New York Yankee outfield trio of sluggers—Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Tom Henrich—hope to set a record total of 100 home runs this season and they're not far off the mark now, with a whole month of the campaign to go. Keller has been setting the pace with DiMaggio and Henrich not far behind. The great year of 1927, when Babe Ruth set his mark of 60 homers, the Yankee outfield totaled only 74 four-ply hits, Bob Meusel getting eight and Earl Combs coming through with six.

Black Takes Club Title

Scores 10 and 9 Victory Over Feaman In Final.

Bill Black, jr., is the new golf champion of Westbrook Country club with a decisive 10 and 9 victory yesterday over M. M. Feaman in the 36-hole final match in the top flight of the club tourney.

Black wound up the match on the 27th hole, after taking an eight up lead on the first 18 in the morning. He shot a 73, one over par, on the first 18 and a 39 on the next, while Feaman had an 82 in the morning and a 49 in the afternoon.

Gene Zediker, tournament medalist who was the victim of a surprise upset in the first round of the tourney, won the second flight over Harold Jones with a 5 and 4 victory in the finals. Joy Herbert took the third flight championship over Keith Miller 2 and 1, and J. C. Gorman defeated Dick Fishback for the fourth flight title.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Pinch Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — Dolph Camilli, likely won't win the pennant for the Dodgers single-handed, but after what he did during the past couple days, he probably could be elected mayor of Flatbush in a unanimous vote.

Since he quit swinging for homers or nothing, he's really begun to plaster them when they count. And for that matter, Master Midget Ott hasn't been doing badly for a guy who was supposed to be practically washed up before the season started.

With the Yanks about to clinch the pennant any day, there seems to be some merit in the suggestion of Jimmie Murphy of the Canton (Ill.) Ledger that they should be dropped from the league and replaced by a team that would give the other clubs a chance. Jimmie would then have Joe McCarthy's boys play the National League champs in the World series.

Southpaw Bob Keefe made it two out of three over Mansfield city champion Bob Spear in their third championship match of the tennis season yesterday, winning the North Central Ohio singles title with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Spear in the tournament finals at Galion.

Early in the season Keefe defeated Spear in the rapid-fire one-day tournament at Maple Lake, but Spear won from Keefe in the finals of the News-Journal city tournament.

Spear and Bob Enos won the doubles championship at Galion, defeating Keefe and Frank Gaddfield 9-7, 6-4.

Next big item on the sports program is Eastern All-Stars vs. New York Giants tomorrow night at the Polo grounds, and stout Steve Owen gave a tip-off on what's likely to happen to the All-Stars, when he remarked the other day: "This is perhaps the best squad I have had since coming to the Giants."

SPORTS COCKTAIL
Fred Apostoli gives the navy credit for giving him a "new grip on life" and he thinks he'll be back fighting the top-rank middleweights by mid-winter.

SET BETTING MARK
CLEVELAND — (AP) — A Labor day crowd of nearly 22,000 wagged $293,611 at the pan-mutuel windows at Thustledowns, establishing what was believed to be a new high for Ohio betting on running races.

Every Brave Connects At Bat In Last Game

Ankrum Gets Tryout With Indians In Exhibition Game at Zanesville

MANSFIELD BRAVES closed their season last night with an easy 11 to 6 victory over the Mud Hens at Tiffin, as Pat Patterson held the Chicks to six hits.

Pat had an 11 to 2 victory going into the ninth, and eased up to give the Hens four more runs in the final stanza. Every member of the Braves got into the hit column, with Bill Salem leading the attack with a triple and home run. Harry Sizemore also got a triple, and Bill Reinka and Bobby TeStruth connected for doubles.

Patterson, who has been troubled by a sore arm for over a month, was in top form for his final game, striking out 12 and giving five bases on balls.

Franz, Dragovich and Stuckman attempted to halt the Braves' attack without success.

The Braves wound up in second place in the Ohio State league standings, a game and a half back of Fremont, the two clubs finishing the same way they did in the first half.

The Mansfield players were on their way to their homes today, with nearly all of them scheduled for action elsewhere next season. Bill Salem, Eddie Mutryn, the league's home run champion, Jim Coleman and Tim Mangan already are assigned to Flint in the Michigan State league for next year, while Freddy Wolpert, Chuck Byers, Pat Patterson, Bobby Ankrum and Bobby TeStruth probably will be sent to Charleston in the Mid-Atlantic league.

Ankrum has been ordered to report to the Cleveland Indians for their exhibition game to night at Zanesville, and probably will see some action in this tilt.

Red Birds Need Two Victories
Columbus Moves Close To Association Title.

(By Associated Press)
Two more victories and the American Association pennant belongs to Columbus.

The Red Birds moved that close to the flag yesterday with a doubleheader win over Toledo. With seven games left on its schedule and a 5 1/2 game lead over Louisville, the flock needs only two triumphs—or one win and a defeat for the Colonels.

The double trouncing, 3 to 2 and 8 to 3, set Toledo 1 1/2 games back of fourth-place Kansas City in its quest for a playoff berth.

Louisville saw its chances of overtaking Columbus fade as it split a twin bill with Indianapolis. The Colonels took the twilight contest, 6 to 3, but lost the nightcap, 8 to 2.

Minneapolis bolstered its hold on third place with a double victory over neighboring St. Paul, 14 to 2 in a morning game at St. Paul and 5 to 3 in an afternoon game at Minneapolis. Kansas City fell 2 1/2 games back of the Millers by dividing a doubleheader with Milwaukee. The Brewers took the opener, 5 to 2, and the Blues the nightcap, 4 to 1.

Indians Stay In 4th Place

In the other direction—St. Louis.

The Cardinals captured a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday with comparative ease, 5-3, and 6-3, to stretch their current winning streak to seven straight games, while the Brooklyn Dodgers had a terrible time winning a 15-inning marathon from the Boston Braves, 6-5, and then escaping with a 2-2 six-inning tie in the nightcap.

At St. Louis, Ernie White held Pittsburgh to nine hits and allowed no runs after the first inning in the opening contest. Afterward Howard Pollet, the kid sensation from the Texas league, pitched a six-hitter for his third victory and drove in two runs with a single.

In the other National league action the Giants swept a double bill from the poor Phillies, 7-2 and 4-3, and Cincinnati split with the Chicago Cubs.

Paul Derringer beat Jake Arroyo in a duel in which each allowed six hits as the Reds topped Chicago, 2-1, but the Cubs came back to take the nightcap, 3-1.

The New York Yankees divided a doubleheader with the Athletics at Philadelphia and now need three more victories to clinch the American league pennant. A cluster of home runs by George Selkirk, Joe Gordon and Charley Keller boomed the bombers to a 13-11 win in the first encounter, but Bill Beckman muffled them, 5-1, on 11 hits in the second session.

The second-place Boston Red Sox raided the Washington Senators twice, 13-9 and 10-2, and the Detroit Tigers took the St. Louis Browns apart 9-5 and 16-8.

Defense Jobs Lure Talent

Young Baseball Players Pass Up Try-out Camps.

COLUMBUS, (AP)—Defense industries are luring likely talent from professional baseball, a veteran "ivory hunter" remarked today.

Charles "Pop" Kelcher of Lebanon, Pa., now directing a try-out camp for the St. Louis Cardinals organization at the Columbus Red Birds' stadium, reported an enrollment of 113 youthful players.

"The Columbus camp normally attracts more than 200," he said. "There were similar declines at other Cardinal summer camps. Many of the boys have important, well-paying jobs in defense plants. The factories need them, and they prefer to pass up a chance for a baseball career."

Kelcher, 66, the game's oldest scout in years of service, said selective service had made inroads also.

"The summer camps had few players over 21 years of age this season," he said. "Many boys who ordinarily would try out were called to service."

The bespectacled scout recalled the blow World War I dealt professional baseball, slowing the game's tempo and cutting attendance.

"There is no need at all for major leagues to close up if the country should become involved in actual warfare," he said. "That should mean only realignment of our baseball setup. The boys under 21 and those 28 or older could take over. This might slow up the game, particularly in the minor leagues, but it shouldn't be a knockout blow."

Reformatory Team Shades Moose

Ohio State Reformatory baseballers won yesterday's fracas with the Cuyahoga Falls Moose 6-5 at the reformatory.

Collecting two runs in the second, fourth and sixth frames behind the pitching of Fisher and Slater, the reformatory team put the game away in the sixth. Strongest bid of the Moose came in the fifth inning when they trotted out their entire "core of five runs."

THEATERS

Stage Show.
Benny Meroff's orchestra is starred in "Funzafire," the hilarious stage show opening a two-day engagement at the Madison today. Featuring a cast of 45, the production doesn't confine itself to the stage but spreads over the house and includes the audience in the shenanigans indulged in by the performers.

"Anything goes as long as it's funny, but clean," Al Brode, Chicago producer of the show, told his cast during rehearsals. The result is a merry riot that has the stars and comedians vying for laughs, and the chorus trying to out-do the headliners. Victor McLaglen in "Broadway Limited" is the screen attraction.

Navy Co-operates.
The U. S. Navy gave full co-operation in the filming of "Dive Bomber," a World War II thriller showing at the Ohio. Most of the picture, directed by Michael Curtiz, was filmed at the U. S. Naval base at San Diego where millions

Hill, center field, led the Billiards in the other game collecting four hits in four trips to the plate.

Declares Every Autoist Needs A Back Seat Driver
MARTINEZ, Cal.—(4NS)—What every motorist needs is a back seat driver—the cautioning hand and shrill tongue of friend wife is one of the greatest traffic safety factors on earth.

So intimated state motor vehicle director James M. Carter, in a speech at Martinez which was a trumpet of triumph for the long suffering back seaters.

Carter termed the practice "a highly useful and honorable calling," and urged motoring wives to take it up actively.

"Don't be ashamed of being a back seat driver," he said.

BOY, 14, TO PAY TAX ON WAGES

LONDON -- (UP) -- Fourteen-year-old Peter Saunders London boy who left school last Christmas is trying to reckon how much income tax he will have to pay on an $18 a week wage.

There are thousands more boys like him in Britain.

Manpower is so short that boys are being employed and paid high wages in munitions factories.

Boys of 14 and 15 are making $16 to $20 every week. Slightly older lads make $24. Youths of 17 in some areas, are getting more than $32.
